THE FAR HORIZON

By LUCAS MALET

The first novel by this talented author since the publication of her famous story

"Sir Richard Calmady"

"If the quality of readableness alone can give large distinction to a new work of fiction, 'The Far Horizon' will easily take its place as THE BOOK OF THE YEAR."—New York Times.

"She stands among the foremost half-dozen of English novelists." —New York Herald.

"The book must prove a rare delight to those who enjoy subtle character analysis and pungent writing." —Boston Herald.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

☞ The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price. ☜

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. 48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Addams, Jane. Newer ideals of peace. N. Y., Macmillan, 1907. c. '06. 18+243 p. D. (Citizens' lib.; ed. by R: T. Ely.) cl., $1.25 net.

The author, who is head resident of the social settlement of Hull House, Chicago, believes that many of the difficulties encountered in our social system are due to the antiquated idea of the virtue of war. Her "newer ideals of peace," therefore, are to obviate these difficulties. Among the troubles in our present system Miss Addams names militarism in government and deprecation of industry; among the remedies for these conditions she names the utilization of women in government, the prevention of child labor, and the substitution of industrialism for militarism.

Ames, Herman Vandenburg, ed. State documents on federal relations: the states and the United States. N. Y., published by the Dept. of History, University of Pennsylvania; for sale by the University of Pennsylvania and Longmans, Green & Co., 1906, [1907.] c. 7+320 p. D. cl., $1.75.

This "collection of documents on the relations of the states to the federal government, 1789-1861, comprises typical papers covering the official action of various states in different sections of the country relative to the political and constitutional issues in our history. The documents have been selected especially with a view to illustrate the development of the doctrines of broad and strict construction, the prevalence of the 'compact theory' of the constitution and the doctrine of 'state rights,' state opposition to the federal judiciary, and the different phases of the slavery controversy, culminating in the secession movement."—Preface.

Baker, Ja. Hutchins. American problems: essays and addresses. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1907. c. 7+222 p. D. cl., $1.20 net.

The author, president of the University of Colorado, divides these essays and addresses into three groups: Ideals, Sociological problems, and Education. The subjects are: Americanism, The real Utopia, Leadership in a Democracy, An example for statesmen, An American preacher, National holidays, American culture, Sociological theories and problems, Practical sociology, The individual and society, Sociology and the pulpit, The teacher taught, Evolution and education, The culture element and economy of time in education, Electives in secondary schools, The American university, A national university.

Barbour, Ralph Henry. A maid in Arcady; with il. partly in col. by Frederic J. von Rapp. Phil., Lippincott, 1906. c. 213 p. 8°, cl., †$2, boxed.

Baxter, W:, jr. Switchboards for power, light and railway service, direct and alternating current, high and low tension. N. Y., Derry-Collard Co., 1906, [1907.] c. 1+7-192 p. il. diagrs., 8°, cl., $1.50.

Beak, G. B. The aftermath of war: an account of the repatriation of Boers and natives in the Orange River Colony, 1902-1904. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1906, [1907.] 10+296 p. il. O. folding map, cl., *$3.50 net.

Chiefly based on impressions gained by the author in South Africa in the course of five years' service, from 1900 to 1904, first as an Intelligence, and second as a Repatriation officer. He says: "The book has been written with a twofold object. On the one hand it is an attempt to describe not only the generosity and the liberality of the repatriation scheme, but also to indicate the exceptional difficulties under which that scheme was carried out. On the other hand, it is an endeavor to vindicate those engaged in the task of repatriation from the charges of waste and extravagance which have been recklessly brought against them."

Bigham, Madge A. Merry animal tales: a book of old fables in new dresses; il. by Clara E. Atwood. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1906, [1907.] c. 14+217 p. 12°, †$1.50.

Contains suggestions for teachers. Published also, with a different preface, and without notes for teachers, under the title: "Blackie, his friends and his enemies."

Blunt, Wilfrid Scawen. Atrocities of justice under British rule in Egypt. N. Y., [A. Wessels Co.,] 1906, [1907.] 63 p. O. pap., *30 c. net.

Called forth by the recent trial and execution of the villagers of Denshawaii for an affray between them and certain English officers. The author traces the history of similar miscarriages of justice since British occupation in 1882, his object being to arouse public opinion against such abuse of power. Lord Cromer is especially arraigned. Mr. Blunt is an English author, traveller and diplomat.

Brainerd, Eleanor Hoyt. Bettina; il. by Will Grefé. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1907. c. '05, '07. 212 p. O. cl., †$1.25.

The author of "The misdemeanors of Nancy" presents another little comedy in "Bettina." The slight plot turns upon a mistake a charming young girl makes, who has been asked by her brother to meet a college chum of his at the ferry and take him out to their home, as the brother is delayed in the city by business. She only knows the young man by description and the fact that he will wear a carnation in his buttonhole. She is late, and thinking she sees the friend suddenly catches a stranger by the arm and tells him to run with her for the boat. The astonished young man finds no time to explain, and becomes involved in a series of episodes which end in a love affair.

Cairns, Rev. D. S. Christianity in the modern world. Cin., Jennings & Graham, [1907.] 15+314 p. D. cl., *$1.50 net.

Studies in theology, the greater part of which have appeared at various times in the form of articles in the [London] Contemporary Review. They are now published in consecutive form. They, "first, briefly enumerate the main causes which have produced the present anarchy of belief;" then "draw attention to the positive synthesis of Christian belief which is emerging from the long analysis of the past century;" and finally "seek to show the incalculable value of this positive result for the world at its present state of development."

Cattell, H: Ware. Postmortem pathology: a manual of the technic of postmortem examinations and the interpretations to be drawn therefrom; a practical treatise for students and practitioners. 3d ed. Phil., Lippincott, 1906, [1907.] c. 19+547 p. il. pls. (partly col.) 8°, cl., $4 net.

Doyle, J: A. English colonies in America. In 5 v. v. 4, The middle colonies; v. 5, The colonies under the House of Hanover. N. Y., Henry Holt & Co., 1907. c. 16+447; 16+497 p. folding map, O. cl., ea., $3.50.
Vol. 1, published in 1882, dealt with "Virginia, Maryland and the Carolinas;" vols. 2 and 3, published in 1886, took up "The Puritan colonies." The two instalments under review complete this history of the English colonies in North America during their period of dependence on the mother country. Vol. 4 discusses the early history of the Dutch colonies in New York and their accession to England; the settlement of New Jersey and Pennsylvania; while the concluding volume deals collectively with the whole body of colonies from the accession of George I. in 1714 to the fall of Quebec in 1756, after which colonial affairs tended towards a separation from England. Both volumes have appendices and indices. Author is a fellow of All Souls' College, Oxford.

Francine, Albert Philip. Pulmonary tuberculosis; its modern and specialized treatment; with a brief account of the methods of study and treatment at the Henry Phipps Institute of Philadelphia. Phil., Lippincott, 1906, [1907. c.] 7+247 p. pls. 12°, cl., $2 net.

Freeman, Mrs. Mary Eleanor Wilkins. By the light of the soul: a novel; il. by Harold M. Brett. N. Y., Harper, 1907. c. '06. 3+497+1 p. pls. D. cl., †$1.50.
An affectionate New England girl loses her mother and must accept a stepmother of cold nature. Her stepsister makes up to her for many sacrifices. An untimely youthful marriage which remains a ceremony only, influences her life and leads to some dramatic situations. An intimate study of a young girl's heart, conscience and devotion to an impetuous, rather selfish sister.

For first entry of book see "Weekly Record," P. W., March 28, 1906, [1626.] The two-volume work has now been greatly abridged by the author's son.

Myers, Philip Van Ness. A short history of ancient times: for colleges and high schools. Bost., Ginn, [1907.] c. '89, '06. 388 p. il. D. cl., $1.10.

This volume consists of the first half of the author's "General history," with such changes in section numbers and cross references as were necessary to render the book independent of the last half of that work. In order to adapt the book to the requirements of teachers wishing to make 800 A.D. the division line between ancient and mediæval history, the narrative has been brought down to the restoration of the empire by Charlemagne.

Myers, Philip Van Ness. A short history of mediæval and modern times: for colleges and high schools. Bost., Ginn, [1907.] c. '89, '06. 438 p. il. D. cl., $1.10.

The last half of Prof. Myers' revised "General history" is embraced in this work, it being intended as a companion volume to his "Short history of ancient times." That the book may meet the needs of classes that have ended their study of ancient times with the breakup of the Roman Empire in the west, the narrative is made to open with the events of the fifth century A.D., and the establishment of the barbarian kingdoms of Roman lands.

Nesbitt, Frank. The magic whistle, and other fairy tale plays. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1906, [1907.] 156 p. il. D. cl., $1.

Contents: The magic whistle; or, how Jesper herded the hares; The mole king's daughter; Rumpelstiltskin; The golden goose; or, how Jack made the princess laugh; Beauty and the beast; The goose girl.

Oesterley, Rev. W. O. E. Religion a permanent need of human nature. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1906, [1907.] 37 p. S. (Judaism and Christianity short studies; ed. by A. Lukyn Williams.) pap., *10 c. net.

The author is a member of the Society of Biblical Archæology. This is the fifth issue of the series "Judaism and Christianity," which plans "to place before Jews of western training and education such aspects of Judaism and Christianity as seem to the authors to be of special importance, more particularly in their mutual relations, whether of affinity or of contrast." The papers are confessedly written from the Christian point of view.

Oman, J: The problem of faith and freedom in the last two centuries. N. Y., A. C. Armstrong & Son, 1906, [1907.] 24+443 p. O. cl., *$2.75 net.

Nine lectures, by the author of "Vision and authority," delivered under the Kerr lectureship in the Glasgow United Free College. The scheme is to examine and discuss the successive stages of religious thought since the Reformation as voiced by Pascal, Butler, Newman, Barr, Ritschl, etc. The Reformation set the distinction between religion and the state, and gave freedom while making religion more and more real. The author's conclusion is that "true faith, so far from being in hostility to freedom, is impossible without it." Notes and index. References precede each lecture.

Author is professor of æsthetics in the George Washington University; formerly professor in Princeton University. A condensation of his "A system of comparative æsthetics," in seven volumes. Its object is to determine for the reader the qualities causing excellence in the higher arts and to increase his appreciation of them. Prepared, by request, for readers whose time is too limited to study the minutiæ of the subject and for teachers who need a text-book.

Robertson, Col. Ja. P: Personal adventures and anecdotes of an old officer. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1906, [1907.] 14+284+16 p. pors. O. cl., *$3.50 net.

Col. Robertson seems to have borne a charmed life; from his earliest years he was the victim of accidents and the hero of hairbreadth escapes. He was born on January 26, 1822, at Carron Vale, Scotland. He joined the 31st Regiment in 1842 and took part in the Sutlej camapign from Moodkee to Sobraon. He was in the Crimea, and throughout the Mutiny he commanded a regiment of Light Cavalry, doing repeatedly the most gallant service. The incidents of life in Ireland and the Ionian Islands during the intervals of peace are amusingly described.

By the author of "On the face of the waters." The plot deals with the careers of two young men, who become friends while cycling through Wales. One is a rich lord, the other a poor clerk. Both are about the same age, have the same degree of culture, and are equally good looking. The lord has a contempt for money, the clerk's one object in life is to make money. They both fall in love with the beautiful granddaughter of a recluse socialist, who has been brought up in entire ignorance of the value of money and of knowledge of the world. The heroine, "Aura," is quite a new type of woman. The story has many side issues illustrating various complex character studies and charming descriptions of the life and scenery of Wales. Money seems to be the "sovereign remedy" for all ills.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JANUARY 26, 1907.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE BOOKS OF 1906.

ONE of the surprises of 1906 in the book world is the fact that there were less books published than in 1905 or in 1904. To the bookseller and reviewer who led such a strenuous life during the past six months this assertion seems incredible; nevertheless it is true. The shortcomings in the output have generally been ascribed to the printers' strikes, which no doubt seriously interfered with publishers' plans in the early part of the year. Probably, too, a lull in publishing was not altogether regretted by the trade when it contemplated the immense mass of books belonging to 1905, that overflowed into 1906, their number and lateness in being issued having prevented any adequate handling of them. This crowding of the bulk of the year's output into the last five months is really to the great detriment of the books themselves, which scarcely get a mention from the hurried reviewer, while the bookseller cannot attempt even to learn their names, much less market them properly.

It was this congestion of the book market of the last half of 1906 that made the season so trying to every one whose business it is to handle books. There is no doubt that there were as many works in current literature published as in past years, that is, as many novels, books for the young, works of travel, histories and religious works; but it is not in these departments that the falling off is notable. There were less than half the number of sets of standard and classical works issued than usual. If the bookseller was stocked up with these, he did a thriving business in clearing his shelves. "The greatest year in the bookstores" is the report all around. More books sold than in any previous year of the trade is the unanimous verdict. That the "unprecedented prosperity" that we had all heard about had not passed us by is matter for sincere congratulation.

The many works rich in literary qualities that are annually being added to our already abundant examples of the best the world produces, must be a revelation to the reader who dates his first introduction to books, back, say, a quarter of a century. Contrast the dry-as-dust, backboneless efforts with which his mental hunger was appeased in those days with the feast of intellect that is set before him at present. This might be called the reconstruction period of American literature. The biographer no longer fears to tell the truth about his subject. We who made the acquaintance of the world's great men twenty-five years ago know comparatively little about them unless we have read the very latest volumes devoted to them. The modern historian is as a rule impartial, most sincere, most charitable. He has reconstructed the whole world's history for us. This "charity for all" extends even into religion. "The battle of the creeds" has miraculously ceased, and Protestant and Catholic have joined hands with the Oriental in the one great striving for the world's betterment. Our moral is evident—if one would be abreast of the times, do not fail to read all the new books.

The article that follows this review on "American Book Production in 1906" contains the figures of the year's production, forming the basis of our criticisms.

The necrology of the year embraces but few noted writers. Mrs. Pearl Mary Teresa Craigie, better known under her pen-name of "John Oliver Hobbes," was a sad loss to our already limited group of novelists. Although her fame has been built up abroad, we may justly claim Mrs. Craigie as one of our own. Two New England writers of children's, or rather young people's books, that have been read and loved for many, many years are to be included in the year's dead. They are Mrs. Adeline Dutton Train Whitney and Rebecca S. Clarke, ("Sophie May.") Dr. Mary Putnam Jacobi, famous as a physician and a writer on medicine and other subjects, passed away, as did Susan Brownell Anthony, after more than a half century's work for woman, and Mrs. Margaret Bottome, also a reformer and an inspiration to her sex.

Carl Schurz, writer and reformer, ended a long and useful life. An eminent geologist and versatile writer is missed in Professor Nathaniel Southgate Shaler, and two well-known novelists in Robert Neilson Stephens and John William De Forest. Paul Laurence Dunbar, the negro poet, will write no more.

The great English author, scholar and antiquary, Richard Garnett, connected for many years with the British Museum, was one of the world's great losses in 1906. George Jacob Holyoake, the founder of Secularism and the historian of the British Co-operative movement, is also to be mourned.

The death of Norway's great poet and dramatist, Henrik Ibsen, moved the whole reading world. The place of Ferdinand Brunetière, the celebrated editor of the Revue des Deux Mondes and member of the French Academy, will not readily be filled. He died at the end of the year.

The review that follows aims to point out the leading books of the year—not only the literary achievements, but also the popular successes.

FICTION.

WITH the flood of novels that poured through the months of 1906, it is impossible to characterize special works to any very great extent. We shall try nevertheless to quote such novels as made indisputable literary successes during the year, others popularly known as "best sellers," and still others that no doubt gave readers many happy hours of enjoyment, even if the adjective great cannot be used in any way in describing them. To a Philadelphia writer seems to belong the credit of having written one of the most charming American novels of 1906. Owen Wister's "Lady Baltimore" owes its success chiefly to its delightful literary quality, so rich in thought and epigram, to its dreamy atmosphere so exactly reproducing the unprogressive social set of an aristocratic old Southern city, making it most refreshingly restful. In contrast is Robert W. Chambers's novel, "The Fighting Chance," with its wealth of characters and incidents, and its up-to-date pictures of New York multimillionaires, and its bridge playing, pleasure chasing women. The influence of heredity is illustrated here as in "Lady Baltimore." But in the first it is only most delightful traits that live again in present-day descendants, in the second a cruel inheritance affords the lovers but a "fighting chance" for happiness. "The Tides of Barnegat" promises to find a permanent place on the fiction shelf. Francis Hopkinson Smith makes a careful study of the quaint fisher life on the New Jersey shore some fifty years ago, combining with it the story of the selfish tumultuous life of a woman of good family, and a sister's useless self-sacrifice. Margaret Deland tells another story of Old Chester in "The Awakening of Helena Ritchie," that introduces Dr. Lavender again and adds a new character study to her portrait gallery of heroines. "Pam," a novel that made considerable sensation in 1905, was followed in 1906 by a sequel—"Pam Decides," in which the Baroness von Hutten was as fascinating as in the first book. It is not often that a sequel equals the book it follows, but no disappointment lies in "Pam Decides;" it is as original and intense as its predecessor. The sudden death of Mrs. Craigie, better known under her pseudonym of "John Oliver Hobbes," attaches peculiar interest to her last book, "The Dream and the Business." Although American born, being a native of Boston, she lived so many years in London that it is often overlooked that she is one of our own writers. "The Dream and the Business" evidences all her well-known qualities as a novelist. It is rich in wit and knowledge of the world—her English world—of which she seemed a part, and embraces many serious controversies on religion. The author of "Madame Butterfly," John Luther Long, has done nothing better than "The Way of the Gods," his novel of the year. Both dramatic and pathetic in the extreme, full of romance and intense passion, it enters into the life of modern Japan with a realism that holds the reader's attention to the very last page. "Coniston" is Winston Churchill's contribution to the year's fiction. The politics of a New England town some thirty years ago and the career of its "boss" is its subject. Though counted among the best sellers, it scarcely reaches the height of literary interest we had a right to expect from the author of "Richard Carvel." Marion Crawford is at home again in "A Lady of Rome." With a dramatic story we get another of his inimitable pictures of modern Italian society. The power of Upton Sinclair's "The Jungle" cannot be denied, though we revolt at its brutal realism. Its exposé, however, of the methods of the stockyards of Chicago has not been without avail. "The Sin of George Warrener" is a pathetically real story of modern strivings and ambitions and dissatisfaction with the commonplace. Marie Van Vorst is at her best in it. "The Quickening," by Francis Lynde, carries one entirely away from city life, the story developing in the Tennessee Valley, twenty years after the Civil War, the incidents illustrating the vagaries of an innately noble character. Another clever character study is "The Shadow of Life," by Anne Douglas Sedgwick, the hero having been born in India and retaining a strange mystical element in his make-up, which brings oftener suffering than happiness to those who know him.

"Hearts and Creeds" is a romance of the old gray city of Quebec, by Anna Chapin Ray, and depicts with unusual felicity the unhappy part the difference in religion plays in society and marriage in Canada. "The Plow-Woman," by Eleanor Gates, has its scene in North Dakota, and portrays a lonely, competent woman. "A Spinner in the Sun," by Myrtle Reed, the author of "At the Sign of the Jack-o-Lantern," has a mystery, which is cleverly elucidated, while holding the interest. "Jane Cable," by George Barr McCutcheon, is a story of Chicago, the plot carrying the lovers to the Philippines. "Scarlett of the Mounted" has its scene in a wretched mining camp in the Klondike, the hero being a handsome young Irishman of the mounted police. The author is Marguerite Merington, this being her first novel.

Examples of the American short story are not numerous. Among the best representative volumes are Anne Warner's "Susan Clegg and Her Neighbors' Affairs," genuine sketches of refined humor; "More Stories of Married Life," by Mrs. Mary Stewart Cutting, in line with the author's previous volume, "Little Stories of Married Life;" Ford Sewell's "Truegate of Mogador," a series of wonderful adventures in North Africa; "The Last Spike, and other Railroad Stories," by Cy. Warman; "The Country Road," delightful short stories of New England life by Alice Brown; "Beached Keels," by Henry Milner Rideout, embraces stories of seagoing life off the eastern coast of Maine. Some of the latest work of Mrs. Harriet Prescott Spofford is contained in "Old Washington," stories with the background of the capital in the days just after the Civil War.

English fiction was enriched by many works from noted writers, which were reprinted on this side. A leader both here and in England was Mrs. Humphry Ward's "Fenwick's Career," based as several of her former works on well-known facts in English biography. George Romney, the famous English artist, is said to have stood for the character of James Fenwick, the incidents of the story resembling those of his career. A strong but sad story of Devon is comprised in Eden Phillpotts's "The Portreeve;" there is a love story and a tragedy and plenty of local color. George Moore in "The Lake" presents a priest who gives up his life's work for a girl who is indifferent to him. The story is told in letters and has its opening in Ireland. "The Call of the Blood" is quite equal to "The Garden of Allah" in novelty and interest. The author, Robert Hichens, makes a study of Sicily and the Southern Italian temperament, his hero following in the footsteps of a Sicilian ancestor. "The Bridal of Anstace," by Elizabeth Godfrey, the author of "The Winding Way," tells of a bride deserted almost at the altar. She seeks seclusion to hide her humiliation with an old nurse near the coast-guard station, at Stonedge, whither the scene of the story is shifted, the reader obtaining most delightful glimpses of an unusually quaint English country life. "Maxwell Gray" in "The Great Refusal" depicts a real hero, who refuses his father's wealth from conscientious motives and goes out into the world to earn his bread. He aims to reform the world, but falls short of his object. "The Subjection of Isabel Carnaby," by Ellen Thorneycroft Fowler, betrays the same wealth of epigram that distinguished "Concerning Isabel Carnaby." "Traffic," by Ernest Temple Thurston, is a bitter protest against the attitude of the church of Rome towards divorce. "Joseph Vance," the first novel of an Englishman who has passed middle age, met with great success. It reads like the autobiography of a middle-class Englishman of fifty years ago. William Frend De Morgan is the author's name.

Mary Cholmondeley came to the fore again in "Prisoners," accepted as a worthy successor to "Red Pottage." It is built on a plot that has done duty in several recent novels—the imprisonment of an innocent man, who can only prove he is not guilty of a murder by ruining a woman's reputation. The Baroness Orczy, the author of "The Scarlet Pimpernel," tells a story of Hungary in the days of the first introduction of machinery in "A Son of the People." The Baroness was born in Hungary, but she married an Englishman, and wrote all her books in English. Marie Corelli wrote "The Treasure of Heaven," a romance of riches, which extols the poor as the possessors of all the virtues, and condemns the rich as selfish and heartless. Beatrice Harraden, who made an unusual record with her first novel, "Ships That Pass in the Night," sent out "The Scholar's Daughter" during the year. It is fresh and witty and naturally most readable. "Lady Jim of Curzon Street" has all the attractive qualities dear to the heart of the reader devoted to the detective story, and written by that prince of the sensational romance, Fergus W. Hume. "The Undertow" is a tale of both sides of the sea, by Robert E. Knowles, painting the temptations of a great city upon a young man ordained for the ministry. Morley Roberts in "The Idlers" sketches an unflattering picture of the London smart set, and Rider Haggard again revels in buried treasures and the mysteries of Africa in "The Spirit of Bambatse." Among the best sellers should not be omitted Ralph Connor's "The Doctor," which has found many readers. Rudyard Kipling's latest work might be mentioned here,although it occupies a middle place between grown-up and juvenile fiction. Kipling, however, always finds readers with old and young. This book is called "Puck of Pook's Hill," and is a collection of stories taken from English history.

Translations from foreign languages of notable novels showed an increase over 1905. Probably the most important works were those of Antonio Fogazzaro, a famous Italian novelist, whose books are really "a liberal education," so much do they contain of history and religion, broadly and frankly discussed. His first book published in this country was "The Saint" (Il Santo), the second volume of a trilogy, of which "The Patriot" (Piccolo Mondo Antico), just issued here, is the first volume, written many years ago. From the French we received "Disenchanted" (Les Désenchantées), by "Pierre Loti," a picture of harem life in Constantinople. From the German "Holyland" a translation of Gustav Frenssen's Hilligeulei. From the Spanish "The Mystery of the Lost Dauphin" (Louis XVII.), romantically set forth by Madame Emilia Pardo Bazán. From the Polish came "On the Field of Glory," a historical novel of the time of King John Sobieski, by Henryk Sienkiewicz, translated by the late Jeremiah Curtin, and from the Russian Dmitri Merejkowski's "Peter and Alexis," being the romance of Peter the Great and the completing volume of the author's trilogy—"Christ and Anti-Christ."

BIOGRAPHY, MEMOIRS, CORRESPONDENCE.

American biography gained many memorable works during the year. Two of the most carefully written and most comprehensive were Elizabeth Bisland's "Life and Letters of Lafcadio Hearn," (2 v.,) and Mrs. Elizabeth Robins Pennell's "Charles Godfrey Leland," (2 v.) Few more striking or more romantic figures are included in the history of American literature than the subjects of these two biographies. They were both workers in many fields, their versatility and rare gifts impressing their personalities upon all who came to know them well. Both biographies are written by sympathetic friends, (Mr. Leland's by his niece, Mr. Hearn's by one who knew him for nearly thirty years,) and both bring out in an extraordinary degree the fascination of these exceptional careers. "Lew Wallace, an Autobiography," (2 v.,) begun several years ago and practically finished in 1905, at the time of General Wallace's death, only came out in the past year. The author of "Ben Hur," dwells chiefly upon his services as a soldier in the Mexican and Civil War. His wife and Mary H. Krout supplement the autobiography with quotations from journals and letters. Most satisfactory pen pictures of a period lacking intimate description in American letters are given in "The First Forty Years of Washington Society," a compilation of the family correspondence of Mrs. Samuel Harrison Smith, (born Margaret Bayard,) by her grandson, J. Henley Smith. The first volume of "Letters and Journals of Samuel Gridley Howe," edited by his daughter, Mrs. Laura E. Richards, throws light upon the years of this great philanthropist's life, spent by him in Greece fighting for freedom. "With John Bull and Jonathan" represents sixty years of an American's life in England and in the United States, and is unusually rich in reminiscences of famous men and women. The writer is John Morgan Richards, the father of the late Mrs. Pearl Richards Craigie, ("John Oliver Hobbes.") "The Life Story of Henry Clay Trumbull," written by Philip F. Howard, depicts the busy career of the late editor of the Sunday School Times. As missionary, army chaplain, editor, writer and explorer, Mr. Trumbull won the love and respect of his associates in an exceptional manner. More chapters in Moncure D. Conway's life are embraced in "My Pilgrimage to the Wise Men of the East." They relate to his journey around the world, made in 1883, and his conversations with Mormons, Buddhists, actors, great statesmen and "all sorts and conditions of men." "The True Andrew Jackson," by Dr. Cyrus T. Brady, announced as ready for publication in the holiday season of 1905, did not come out till some time in 1906. It belongs to The "True" Biographies Series, and is a picturesque account of a strong and often misrepresented personality. "The good gray poet" inspired two new biographical volumes—"Walt Whitman, His Life and Work," from Bliss Perry, the editor of the Atlantic Monthly, and "With Walt Whitman in Camden, (March 28-July 14, 1888,") a transcript of a diary kept by Horace Traubel, one of Whitman's intimate friends and literary executors. "Joseph Jefferson," the lamented and much admired actor, was the subject of Francis Wilson's reminiscences of a fellow-player. "Famous Actor Families in America" gives an account of the Booths, the Jeffersons, the Drews and other great actor families interwoven with anecdotes and new biographical facts. The author is Montrose Jonas Moses.

Extensive research is evidenced in a new biography of "Molière," by Hobart Chatfield-Chatfield Taylor. The story of the great French dramatist's life is told for English readers, and is supplemented by notes, chronologies, bibliographies and many other literary helps. An appreciation of "Edouard Remenyi," the Hungarian violinist, by Gwendolyn Kelley and George Putnam Upton, will charm all music lovers. The pulpit contributed most interestingly to this department. Bishop Potter in "Reminiscences of Bishops and Archbishops" culled from his long association with and knowledge of the leading men in the Episcopal Church here and in England, told many amusingly true stories; while Bishop Ethelbert Talbot in "My People of the Plains" illustrates the life and people of Wyoming and Idaho in numerous racy sketches. Professor David Walker Woods, Jr., had exceptional opportunities for consulting rare public documents in preparing his life of "John Witherspoon," a lineal descendant of John Knox. A series of biographies of great Japanese statesmen and soldiers is comprised in "Makers of Japan," by J. Morris. The work conveys a very interesting impression of Japan and her people, and of the workings of reform as exemplified in the lives of some of her patriots. Still another life of "George Washington" comes to us from James Albert Harrison in the uniform of Heroes of the Nations Series; also another life of "John Sherman," by Theodore E. Burton, in the American Statesmen Series. "John Calvin, the Organizer of Reformed Protestantism, 1509-1564," is a volume of Heroes of the Reformation Series, the author being Professor Williston Walker, of Yale University. Heroes of American History Series was increased by two works by F. Albion Ober, namely, "Pizarro and the Conquest of Peru" and "Vasco Nuñez de Balboa." The romantic career of "Alexander Hamilton" formed the central motive of an essay on American union by Frank Scott Oliver. Considering the voluminous literature already existing relating to Lincoln, one would scarcely think there was room for another work on the subject, but Frank Trevor Hill, of the New York Bar, fills an unoccupied niche with skill and rare interest in "Lincoln the Lawyer."

From English sources, either in reprints or in limited editions of the orginal English works, we have to acknowledge numerous notable biographies. The beginning of 1906 brought Winston Leonard Churchill's admirable life of his father, "Lord Randolph Churchill," (2 v.,) carefully chronicling his public life in English politics as leader of the House of Commons and Chancellor of the Exchequer in Lord Salisbury's cabinet. A supplementary work to the above and a sympathetic appreciation of the man is the Earl of Rosebery's "Lord Randolph Churchill." Both men were warm friends for years, although political opponents. "Life and Letters of the First Earl of Durham, 1792-1840," (2 v.,) by Stuart J. Reid, presents a prominent English Whig politician and diplomatist. "Lord Acton and His Circle" is reminiscent chiefly of writers and their books, and consists of over one hundred and seventy-five personal letters. "The Life of Sir Richard Burton," (2 v.,) the translator of "The Arabian Nights" and "The Scented Garden," could not fail to be interesting. The man as traveller and writer has left an indelible impress upon his times. His biographer, Thomas Wright, the author of a "Life of Edward FitzGerald," the adapter of Omar Khayyâm, has aimed very earnestly and very successfully to arrive at the precise truth in telling his story. Robert Sherard has written "The Life of Oscar Wilde," prompted by the desire that the world should know the good as well as the bad of this unfortunate man. He knew Oscar Wilde intimately for sixteen years, but was never in any sense his disciple, nevertheless he finds much to say in praise of his literary work and of his character as shown to him. "Personal Reminiscences of Henry Irving," (2 v.,) by Bram Stoker, and "Sir Henry Irving," by Haldane Macfall, are rich in anecdotes and personal details of the great English actor. Haldane Macfall, likewise contributed a volume to the Spirit of the Age Series on "Whistler." "George Herbert and His Times" was the subject of a work by A. G. Hyde. "In the Sixties and Seventies" comprises impressions of many famous writers, artists and actors, among whom Laura Hain Friswell, the daughter of the late English novelist and essayist, James Hain Fris-well, lived for many years in an old-fashioned part of London. A new criticism of "Jean Jacques Rousseau," (2 v.,) comes from Frederika Macdonald, which places his life and character in altogether a more favorable light than the generally accepted one. The great French philosopher, René Descartes, and the foremost mathematician of his day, is the subject of a volume "Descartes, His Life and Times," by Elizabeth S. Haldane. "Elizabeth Montagu, the Queen of the Blue Stockings," (2 v.,) has had her correspondence from 1720 to 1761 gathered together and given to the world by her great-grandniece, Emily J. Climenson. Hugh Noel Williams tells of "Five Fair Sisters," nieces of Cardinal Mazarin, at the court of Louis XIV. Their loves and their intrigues make absorbing reading.

Literary Lives, a new series, had added to it "Sir Walter Scott," by Andrew Lang; Living Masters of Music "Edward Grieg," by H. Theophilus Finck, and "Edward Macdowell," by Laurence Gilman; English Men of Letters Series "Walter Pater," by Arthur Christopher Benson, and Music of the Masters Series "Beethoven," by Ernest Walker.

The Hohenlohe memoirs, so widely discussed in Germany for their political revelations and finally suppressed by the Emperor immediately after publication, were brought out here at the end of the year. Friedrich Curtius made a translation of the work from the German with the title "Memoirs of Prince Chlodwig of Hohenlohe-Schillingsfuerst," (2 v.) One of the last literary labors of Ferdinand Brunetière, the editor of the Revue des Deux Mondes, who recently died, was a biographical volume on "Honoré de Balzac" for the French Men of Letters Series. Translated from the Russian came a new, revised autobiographical volume, "Leo Tolstoy, His Life and Work," covering the time of Tolstoy's life to the time of his marriage, from 1828 to 1862. Paul Birukoff compiled the work, adding letters and new biographical material.

HISTORY.

Several important historical enterprises were carried forward through the year, or brought to a finish. "The American Nation," edited by Albert Bushnell Hart, one of the most comprehensive American series, a history from original sources by associated scholars, was completed by the addition of seventeen volumes, making twenty-seven volumes in all, each by a different author. "A History of the United States and Its People from Their Earliest Records to the Present Time," by Elroy McKendree Avery, first announced in 1904 to be comprised in twelve volumes, has been extended to fifteen. The first and second, now published, cover the period of discovery and colonial times. James Ford Rhodes's "History of the United States," running "from the compromise of 1850 to the final restoration of home rule in the South in 1877," was brought to a close with volumes six and seven. "Twenty Years of the Republic, 1885-1905," by Harry Thurston Peck, is a popularly written, but a most graphic and impartial history of the political and social life of the nation, between the time of President Cleveland's first inauguration and the end of the McKinley-Roosevelt administration. Of timely interest are two works on the Panama canal. One is quite exhaustive. It is entitled "Four Centuries of the Panama Canal," and comes from Willis Fletcher Johnson, who has for years made the subject one of earnest study. The other work, "Panama, the Isthmus and the Canal," is also from an authority on the Panama canal, but of smaller size, presenting a clear, non-technical description of the entire gigantic work. "Japan," by David Murray, first published in 1894, has been revised and brought down to date, being still a volume of the Story of the Nations Series. Richard Hildredth's "Japan," for many years the only authority on the subject, was brought into line with more modern research by Ernest Wilson Clement. "The Passing of Korea" strikes a popular chord. Homer Beza Hulbert offers here an exhaustive account of this picturesque country and people.

The second and completing volume of "The Development of the European Nations, 1870-1900," by John Holland Rose, enters into European complications of a political nature, with intelligence and evidence of careful study. The first volume of "A History of the Inquisition of Spain" is a scholarly study of an institution that at one time made its power felt throughout the civilized world. Henry C. Lea is the author. The work will come out in four volumes. An exhaustive history of "The Declaration of Independence," based upon original sources by John H. Hazelton, is recommended to students.

"The Political History of England," edited by William Hunt and Reginald L. Poole, is one of the most extensive and comprehensive historical works coming from English sources now on the market. The volumes are from different pens and devoted to special periods and have not followed each other in regular sequence. In the past year were issued v. 1, "The History of England from the Earliest Times to the Norman Conquest," by Thomas Hodgkin, and v. 4, "The History of England from the Accession of Richard II. to the Death of Richard III., (1377-1485,)" by Charles W. Chadwick Oman; vs. 2, 3, 10 and 11 came out in a previous year. There will be 12 volumes. "History of England," (6 v.,) edited by Charles W. Chadwick Oman, was enlarged by a new volume, v. 2, on "England Under the Normans and Angevins, 1066-1272," by H. W. C. Davis. Volume 4 of this great history was published in 1905.

Evelyn Shirley Shuckburgh, lecturer in ancient history in University College, London, is the author of a volume in Story of the Nations Series entitled "Greece from the Coming of the Hellenes to A.D. 14," this being the second volume on the subject included in the series. Bishop Stubbs's "Lectures on Early English History," delivered at various times in the University of Oxford, have been edited and gathered between covers by Arthur Hassall. The problems of "Modern Germany," both political and economic, her policy, her ambitions and the causes of her success are discussed by O. Eltzbacher. "The First Annexation of the Transvaal" traces the early relations of the Boers with the British government, and the events that led up to and accompanied the annexation in 1844. The author, William Johannes Leyds, was formerly Minister Plenipotentiary for the South African Republic. The South Africa of to-day is depicted in all its phases by one thoroughly acquainted with it—Archibald Ross Colquhoun—in "The Africander." A review is given of the Punic wars, the Spanish Armada and the Russo-Japanese war in Fred T. Jane's "Heresies of Sea Power." "A History of Modern Liberty," by Professor Mackinnon, of St. Andrew's University, Scotland, traces the development of liberty as exemplified in modern history. Major Wood, president of the Literary and Historical Society of Quebec, treats in an elaborate sketch of "The Fight for Canada" in the seven years' war between France and England.

DESCRIPTION AND TRAVEL.

As in past years, the American went to and fro upon the face of the earth during 1906, writing interesting works of travel and illustrating them richly through the useful kodak. Lilian Whiting visited "The Land of Enchantment," and depicts the scenic marvels and the resources and development of life in the great southwest from Pike's Peak to the Pacific. "The Wonders of the Colorado Desert," (Southern California,) pictured and described by George Wharton James, represents many days spend in this apparently arid spot by the author, who produces two thick volumes filled with a history of its rivers and its mountains, its canyons and its springs, its life and history, including its storms and weirdness and mystery, its wonderful sunrises and sunsets. In "Tarry at Home Travels" Edward Everett Hale points out many interesting things one might visit in one's near neighborhood. Italy seems to have taken a permanent hold upon the traveller's imagination. "Italian Days and Ways," a personal record from Mrs. Anne Hollingsworth Wharton, is rich in description and adventure; "By Italian Seas" is a leisurely account of travel by Ernest Clifford Peixotto, the author-artist, and his wife in Mediterranean countries. Francis Miltoun and Blanche McManus, (Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield,) wrote and illustrated "Rambles on the Riviera," a delightful journey made en automobile. Frank Berkeley Smith, the son of F. Hopkinson Smith, jotted down a series of racy impressions "In London Town," seen as he says "through Parisian spectacles set in an American frame." Many of the clever drawings are also his work. "Certain Delightful English Towns" are the subjects of a dozen papers by William Dean Howells, charming examples, all of them, of his sympathetic style. A motor trip of nearly 5000 miles is described in M. M. Shoemaker's "Winged Wheels in France." "Through the Gates of the Netherlands" is an unusually fascinating account of several months spent in Holland by Mary Ella Waller, the author of "The Wood-Carver of 'Lympus." Charles M. Pepper, a well-known journalist, wrote "Panama to Patagonia;" Thomas F. Millard, "The New Far East," and Frederick Jones Bliss, "The Development of Palestine Exploration," an amplification of lectures delivered before the Union Theological Seminary in 1903 on the Ely Foundation.

"Highways and Byways of the Mississippi Valley," written and illustrated by Clifton Johnson, depicts the country life through the valley where the author wandered and lodged in pursuit of material for his book. "The Connecticut River and the Valley of the Connecticut," from the pen of Edwin Munroe Bacon, and "The Ohio River," from Archer Butler Hulbert, present a consecutive narrative of the historic and other events, the scenery, etc., of these two wonderful rivers. "The Idyllic Avon" is a simple description of the Avon from Tewksbury to above Stratford-on-Avon, by John Henry Garrett, with songs and pictures of the river and its neighborhood. The director of the New York Zoological Park, William Temple Hornaday, manages with many daring experiences after big game to crowd into "Camp Fires in the Canadian Rockies" no end of valuable information about the country, the strange personality of the mountain goat, and other game to be found in this wild and little visited locality. Three years spent by William B. Freer in the Philippines, stationed as teacher and division superintendent in various parts of the island of Luzon, is the foundation for his book, "The Philippine Experiences of an American Teacher." A new chapter in Arctic adventure, telling of the strenuous life, is comprised in Anthony Fiala's "Fighting the Polar Ice," a record of two years in the Arctic, 1903-1905, by the second Ziegler Polar expedition. The Trail Makers Series added to its numbers "The Voyages and Explorations of Samuel de Champlain, (1604-1616,) (2 v.,) and "The Journeys of René Roberts, Cavalier Sieur de la Salle," (2 v.)

LITERARY HISTORY AND MISCELLANY.

This department always makes a great show in numbers, as we gather in it not only much miscellaneous literary matter, but collected works. The volumes of essays and literary criticisms are more representative of patient labor than original thought, being mostly series of lectures prepared for college or university classes. Among more notable volumes we select for mention the following: John C. Van Dyke's "The Opal Sea," studies in impressions and appearances of the sea; "A Frontier Town, and Other Essays," scholarly papers about men and events by Henry Cabot Lodge; Joseph Spenser Kennard intelligently and with keen literary appreciation discusses "Italian Romance Writers;" "Friends on the Shelf" stands for a dozen essays on favorite writers and kindred themes by Bradford Torrey. A critical examination of the literary work of one of our greatest American authors is embraced in "The Life and Genius of Nathaniel Hawthorne," by Frank Preston Stearns. A work coming from the wide experience of Arthur Train, an assistant district attorney, New York County, commends itself strongly both for its information and humor and literary cleverness to the intelligent layman who "wants to know." It comes to us under the title of "The Prisoner at the Bar." Its aim is to throw sidelights on the administration of criminal justice, the object often being obtained through amusing sketches often in fiction form. The above are from American writers.

"A History of Hungarian Literature" bears the name of Frederick Riedl, professor of Hungarian literature in the University of Budapest, and makes a volume of "Short Histories of the Literatures of the World," edited by Edmund Gosse. It covers a subject with which the majority of students have but small acquaintance. One of Gilbert Keith Chesterton's most recent critical and original studies is devoted to "Charles Dickens." "Shakespeare and the Modern Stage," inspired essays by Sidney Lee. "From a College Window," from the author of a "Life of Edward Fitzgerald" — Arthur Christopher Benson—is made up of intimate papers on a variety of topics. "Tolstoy on Shakespeare" is a translation of the great Russian's frank opinion of the literary ability and ethics of the English dramatist. He is supported in his adverse criticisms by letters from Bernard Shaw and Ernest Crosby. Lovers of music should read "Music and Musicians," by Edward Algernon Baughan, a series of articles culled from London journals on various operas, composers and similar subjects.

Charles Evans's monumental work on "American Bibliography" was carried through the third volume, covering the years 1751 to 1764, and the "Jewish Encyclopædia," edited by Isidore Singer and other scholars and specialists, was completed with the issue of the twelfth volume. Invaluable helps to writers and students are to be found in the "A. L. A. Portrait Index," in the "Supplement to the United States Catalog," containing titles of books published during 1902-1905, and in "Stokes' Encyclopedia of Familiar Quotations," compiled by E. E. Treffry, covering in a very thorough manner the field of recent literature. George Willis Cooke's compilation of "A Bibliography of James Russell Lowell" and "A Bibliography of the Writings of Henry James," compiled by Le Roy Phillips, fill hitherto unoccupied niches. "Who's Who in America," the fourth biennial issue for 1906-1907; the English "Who's Who for 1906," and "The Green Room Book," the English who's who of the stage, should be in every library and in every editorial room. Whitaker's "Reference Catalogue of Current Literature," in two fat volumes, embraces the full titles of books now in print and on sale in England.

POETRY AND THE DRAMA.

The magazines and literary periodicals absorbed the larger part of the output of poetry during 1906, few volumes of original poems marking the year. The exceptions were a collection of Richard Watson Gilder's poems, which relate to music either directly or symbolically, with the title "A Book of Music;" Mrs. Katrina Trask's "Night and Morning," a story told in verse on an Old Testament subject; "Augustine the Man," a play in blank verse by Amélie Rives, now the Princess Troubetzkoy; and "Last Verses," by "Susan Coolidge," (Sarah Chauncey Woolsey.) The last work of the negro poet, Paul Laurence Dunbar, "Joggin' Erlong," is invested with special interest in view of his death during the year.

In anthologies were "The Friendly Town," a little book of poems for the urbane, representing the love of the city in English literature, compiled by Edward Verrall Lucas; "Selections from the Poetry of John Payne," made by Tracy and Lucy Robinson, has a strong literary and biographical interest, Payne having been one of the translators of "The Arabian Nights." "Selected Lyrical Poems of Algernon Charles Swinburne" fills a need, while "Poems of Italy," selected from the odes of Giosué Carducci and translated from the Italian by M. W. Arms, introduces one of Italy's most intellectual, progressive men.

ART WORKS AND WORKS ON ART.

While there were many volumes profusely and artistically illustrated from photographs shown in the holiday season of 1906, books known in the past as "art works"—excepting, of course, practical art works or histories of art—were notably small in numbers. "The American Girl as Seen and Portrayed by Howard Chandler Christy" is one of the few examples of the work of our best illustrators. A concise history of "Landscape Painting and Modern Dutch Artists" appeals both to the student and the general reader, and is written by E. B. Greenshields. "The Secret of the Old Masters," by Albert Abendschein, is a study of the color methods of the old painters, demonstrating that the methods of modern painters are exactly contrary to those of the old school. "How to Look at Pictures," by Robert Clermont Witt, is rich in educational qualities; "The Country House" is a practical manual of the planning and construction of the American country home and its surroundings, by Charles Edward Hooper; and supplementing it is Helen Churchill Candee's "Decorative Styles and Periods in the House," a study in furnishings and embellishments of our homes through many periods. Volume one of Sturgis's "A History of Architecture" introduced a valuable enterprise to be comprised in three volumes. These works are from American writers, English authors furnishing others on kindred subjects, as "The Modern Home," by Walter Shaw Sparrow, and volumes one and two of the four-volume work on "A History of English Furniture," by Percy Macquoid. Musical and the dramatic works also find a place in this department. Professor Nicholson, of Yale University, depicted "The Struggle for a Free Stage in London" in an extremely graphic style, showing how the theatrical monopoly of two centuries was at last ended. A book frankly addressed to those who do not wholly understand music but want to is "How to Appreciate Music," by the well-known musical critic, Gustav Kobbé. Another well-known musical critic, William James Henderson, offers practical hints about vocal technics and style in "The Art of the Singer."

"Pre-Raphaelitism and the Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood," (2 v.,) is a history of the inception and development of the Pre-Raphaelite school of painting by the English artist, William Holman Hunt, one of the leaders. Newnes' Art Library had added to it "Giovanni Bellini," by Everard Meynell; "Michael Angelo," by Georg Gronau, and "Correggio," by Selwyn Brinton, all profusely illustrated by reproductions of the masterpieces of these celebrated artists. A beautiful work by the Italian writer, Rodolfo Lanciani, is "The Golden Days of the Renaissance in Rome," illustrating with text and pictures the moral and material evolution of the Eternal city.

POLITICAL AND SOCIAL SCIENCE.

The works in this department by American authors are as varied in subjects as they are imposing in numbers. A study of "The Electoral System of the United States," made by J. Hampden Dougherty, traces its history and points out the perils that have attended its operations. American Public Problems, a new series, was introduced by a monograph upon "Immigration and its Effects Upon the United States," by Prescott Farnsworth Hall, and was followed by "The Election of [United States] Senators," by Professor G. H. Haynes, of the Worcester Polytechnic Institute. Volumes on the many questions of law and government now agitating the people are comprised in the succeeding group: "The Power to Regulate Corporations and Commerce" is a discussion of the existence, basis, nature and scope of the common law of the United States, by Frank Hendrick, member of the New York Bar and author of "Railway Control by Commission;" in "The Heart of the Railroad Problem" Professor Frank Parsons gives the history of the railway discrimination in the United States, and writes down his conviction that the heart of the railroad problem lies in the question of impartial treatment of shippers; Professor Emory R. Johnson, of the University of Pennsylvania, deals with "Ocean and Inland Water Transportation." "The English Patents of Monopoly," one of the Harvard Economic Studies, by Professor William Hyde Price, is a special investigation presenting material on this important phase of economic history not hitherto available. "The Battles of Labor" embraces the William Levi Bull lectures for 1906 by Carroll D. Wright, former United States Commissioner of Labor. "Industrial America" gathers together the lectures delivered in Berlin in 1906, by J. Laurence Laughlin, Professor of Political Economy in the University of Chicago. "The Nature of Capital and Income" comes from Irving Fisher, Professor of Political Economy in Yale University. "Municipal Ownership in Great Britain," by Hugo R. Meyer, at one time assistant professor of political economy in the University of Chicago. "Betterment, Individual, Social and Industrial," gives in convenient form the latest discoveries which promote individual, industrial and collective efficiency. The author is E. Wake Cook.

Socialism was the subject of a number of works. "The Cost of Competition," by Sidney A. Reeve, tends in its arguments toward rational socialism. "Applied Sociology," by Lester Frank Ward, is a treatise on the conscious improvement of society by society. John Spargo under the title "Socialism" gave a summary and interpretation of socialistic principles; he also wrote "The Bitter Cry of the Children," an exposé of factories, mills and mines employing children under the legal working age. "Man, the Social Creator," is made up of material gathered by Henry Demarest Lloyd several years before his death in 1903. It takes up the growth of the labor movement and other interesting questions of the moment. An impartial survey of the negro problem in America since the seventeenth century is contained in "The Negro and the Nation," by George S. Merriam. "A Modern Slavery," by Henry Wood Nevinson, is a report of the slave trade carried on to-day by the Portuguese in their African provinces, made for Harper's Magazine. The "Addresses of John Hay," late United States Secretary of State, are rich in discussions of political and literary matters.

English writers were stirred along parallel lines of thought with our own. "The Labour Movement in Australasia" is a study in social-democracy by V. S. Clark. "Industrial Efficiency," (2 v.,) is a comparative study of industrial life in England, Germany and America, by Dr. Arthur Shadwell. Jesse Collings, member of the House of Commons, writes on "Land Reform, Occupying Ownership, Peasant Proprietary and Rural Education in Great Britain." The secretary of the Revue de Paris, Viëtor Bérard, offers a survey on "British Imperialism and Commercial Supremacy" of England's commercial and industrial situation. It was translated from the French by H. W. Foskell. A prominent European socialist named Jean Jaurès is the author of "Studies in Socialism," also translated from the French. From the German by Professor H. Dietzel, of the University of Bonn, we received "Retaliatory Duties."

RELIGION AND PHILOSOPHY.

Sermons, lectures, meditations, commentaries and expositions make up to so large extent the contributions to the above subjects that we shall have to omit many works, giving space as far as possible, however, to notable publications here and abroad most especially attractive to the general reader. "The Social Message of the Modern Pulpit" appeals to every thoughtful person, throwing the responsibility of spreading the principles of the Gospel of Christ upon each one of us. The pastor of the First Congregational Church, of Oakland, California, Dr. Charles Reynolds Brown, is the author. "Realities of Christian Theology," an interpretation of Christian experience, is the work of Professor Clarence Augustine Beckwith, who fills the chair of systematic theology in Chicago Theological Seminary. A socialistic study of foreign missions, issued in three volumes under the title "Christian Missions and Social Progress," was completed by the publication of the third volume, Dr. James Shepard Dennis being the author. The triumph of righteousness in high places is the subject of "America's Awakening," by Philip Loring Allen. "The Evolution of Religions," by Everard Bierer, is a comparative discussion of the different great religious systems of the world. "The Origin and Permanent Value of the Old Testament" aims to answer some of the questions in the minds of ministers and Sunday-school teachers, the author—Charles Foster Kent—being Woolsey Professor of Biblical Literature in Yale University. The Rev. C. Allen Dinsmore, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Waterbury, Conn., makes through "Atonement in Literature" an original approach to the doctrine of atonement through literature rather than through the Scriptures. The fifth and final volume of one of the most important recent works on philosophy by an American, the author being assistant Professor of Philosophy in Harvard University, has been issued. The work is known as "The Life of Reason, or, the Phases of Human Progress," the author's name being George Santayana. A teacher of the Hindu faith and Solicitor-General of Ceylon is author of an illuminating series of discourses on "Culture of the Soul Among Western Nations." They were delivered before the Monsalvat School for the Comparative Study of Religion and before various other learned societies. The author is catalogued as Pannambalam Rámanáthan.

Not without fresh interest is "A Short History of the Oxford Movement," by Sir Samuel Hall, from the other side, and "Christianity in the Modern World," by Rev. D. S. Cairus, a greater part of the volume having been published in the Contemporary Review. Christian quietism from early times to the close of the fifteenth century has its history related in De Montmorency's "Thomas à Kempis." "The History of English Rationalism in the Nineteenth Century," by Alfred W. Benn, gives considerable space to the exposition of various philosophical systems in their relation to religious belief. Leonard Alston's "Stoic and Christian in the Second Century" compares the ethical teachings of Marcus Aurelius with that of contemporary and antecedent Christianity. "Christian Origins," from the German of Dr. Otto Pfleiderer, of the Berlin University, is purely historical in its viewpoint. "The Scientific Creed of a Theologian," by Dr. Rudolf Schmid, of the University of Tübingen, seeks to prove there is no division between science and theology. A book that has been creating much discussion in France is Louis Elbe's "Future Life in the Light of Ancient Wisdom and Modern Science," under which title an authorized translation of it has been made from the French. It presents all authentic evidences available on the immortality of the soul, and is of intense interest and most convincing.

SCIENCE.

An intelligent demonstration of the truth of the philosophy of evolution is made by Dr. Caleb Williams Saleeby in "Evolution the Master-Key" further explained in a sub-title as a "discussion of the principles of evolution as illustrated in atoms, stars, organic species, mind, society and morals." The planet Mars will probably never cease to be a subject of study and speculation. Professor Morse, a member of the National Academy of Sciences, in "Mars and its Mystery," brings together all that is known of the planet in an attractive form for popular reading. The larger aspects of astronomy are dealt with in a volume of essays, "Side-Lights on Astronomy and Kindred Fields of Popular Science," by Simon Newcomb. How large is the universe? How long will it endure, etc., are among the problems discussed. The patient and sincere work of the Society for Psychical Research has brought many hitherto unexplainable and reluctantly acknowledged phenomena into the realm of science. Professor James Hervey Hyslop, vice-president of the society, offers in two recent works, "Borderland of Psychical Research" and "Enigmas of Psychical Research" most fascinating data not, as he says, "for the purpose of scientific proof of a transcendental world, but as evidence which needs further investigation." The part played by heredity in mental and moral life is illustrated in "Mental and Moral Heredity in Royalty," a statistical study in history and phychology made by Dr. Frederick Adams Woods, a lecturer in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Somewhat in line with the foregoing are "Brain and Personality," or the physical relations of the brain to the mind, by Dr. W. Hanna Thomson, physician to Roosevelt Hospital, New York. "The Analysis of Racial Descent in Animals" is a study in evolution by F. H. Montgomery, Jr., Professor of Geology in the University of Texas. George Iles's "Inventors at Work," with chapters on discovery, is one of the author's enthralling volumes, half science, half biography, that has found its hundreds of readers.

Educational science was increased during the year by many valuable monograms. "A History of Higher Education in America" added largely to the reputation of Professor Thwing, president of Western Reserve University and Adelbert College. "The Principles of Teaching Based on Psychology" is the work of Edward Lee Thorndike, Professor of Educational Psychology in Teachers' College, Columbia University. "Everyday Ethics," by Ella Lyman Cabot, is also for the teacher, as is "Pestalozzi and His Educational System," by Dr. Henry Barnard, who has done more than any man in America to make the work of Pestalozzi known. The author of "The Mind and Its Education," George Herbert Betts, is head of the department of psychology and education in Cornell College, Mount Vernon, Iowa. "The German Universities and University Study," from the German of Friedrich Paulsen, the Professor of Philosophy in the University of Berlin, gives a systematic account of the nature, functions, organization and historical development of German universities.

"The Principles of Electric Wave Telegraphy" are clearly explained by John Ambrose Fleming, Professor of Electrical Engineering, University of London. "The Origin of Life," by John Butler Burke, shows the results of the author's experiments in trying to develop living from absolutely non-living matter. Mr. Burke has received research degree from the Cambridge University, and is scholar and gold medalist of Trinity College, Dublin. G. E. Boxall, an English writer, offers a study in evolution, more literary than scientific, in "The Anglo-Saxon." "Essay on the Creative Imagination," taken from the French of Theodore Ribot, controverts some accepted views on the subject. "Space and Geometry in the Light of Physiological, Psychological and Physical Inquiry," from the German of Ernest Mach, relates to certain conceptions beyond the explanation of ordinary geometry. "Sex and Character," an authorized translation from the sixth German edition of Otto Weininger, is an attempt to place the relations sex in a new and decisive light.

M. M. M.

AMERICAN BOOK PRODUCTION IN 1906.

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY during 1906 placed on record, through the "Weekly Record of New Publications," the titles of 7139 books, of which 415 were new editions. A falling off in publication is shown, both in comparison with 1905 and 1904, when in the former year we recorded 8112 books and in the latter 8291. In these totals new editions of standard works are included, but in 1905 and 1906 we dropped from our record the cheap paper series, mostly reissues of old books, and almost exclusively stock for the newsstands instead of for the booksellers' shelves. While this in a measure accounts for the lesser total of 1905, it does not altogether account for that of 1906. The printers' strikes at the beginning of the year, which seriously interfered with the publishers' proposed activity, to a very great extent reduced the year's book production, the great mass of books sent out in the last six months of the year scarcely making up for the shortcomings of the first six. Table No. 1, which follows, clearly illustrates the class or classes of books which failed to receive usual additions, making the count for the year so unexpectedly short. Literature and Collected Works and Poetry and the Drama, two classes that gather in the large numbers of new editions of classics and standards, always in demand for public and private libraries, and which are the steady grist that keeps the publishers' mills going all the year round, fell in our tables to the sixth and ninth places, after having been for several years in the second and fourth. The two classes together are in comparison with 1905, 552 books short, which is alone quite a remarkable showing. The third notable falling off was in Fine Arts and Illustrated Books, there being at least 50 less books under this heading than in previous years. Fiction and Juvenile literature held their own—the former leading the list in numbers, but not coming up to the 1905 count. The juvenile books were in excess of those of 1905, as were the educational works. There were more works included in Description and Travel and under Works of Reference, but the other classes differ but slightly from those of 1905, excepting in smaller totals generally.

Out of the whole total of 7139 books recorded, 3315 were received at this office; the balance represents titles gathered from copyright entries, from information sent us by publishers, and in various other ways.

Table No. 2 attempts to show the number of books manufactured in the United States in 1906—first, those by American authors; second, those by English or other foreign authors made in this country according to the demands of copyright law, and third, the books in English imported bound or in sheets, these three classes comprising the book production of the United States in 1906. The first and second classes are almost all copyright books. This table, like the former, scarcely claims to be exactly correct, as it is impossible always to trace the history of a work, from its author to its final publication. The table shows 5093 books by American authors against 5719 of 1905; 1072 books by English or other foreign authors (made here) against 1426 of 1905, and 974 books or sheets imported, against 967 of 1905. The reprints were, as usual, the largest in Fiction, amounting to 295, far less, however, than in several previous years, when almost double that number of English or other foreign novels were reprinted. The most evident fact demonstrated by this table is the great number of books by American authors published in 1906 in all classes of literature.

REPORT OF THE REGISTER OF COPYRIGHTS FOR FISCAL YEAR 1905-6.

The copyright business and the work of the Copyright Office for the fiscal year from July 1, 1905, to June 30, 1906, inclusive, are summarized by the Register of Copyrights, Thorvald Solberg, as follows:

RECEIPTS.

The gross receipts during the year were $82,610.92. A balance of $2116.93, representing trust funds and unfinished business, was on hand July 1, 1905, making a total of $84,727.85 to be accounted for. Of this amount the sum of $2351.73 was refunded, having been sent to the Copyright Office as excess fees or as fees for articles not registrable, leaving a net balance of $82,376.12. The balance carried over July 1, 1906, was $2178.12 (representing trust funds, $1811.16, and total unfinished business since July 1, 1897—nine years—$366.96), leaving for fees applied during the fiscal year 1905-6, $80,198.

EXPENDITURES.

The appropriation made by Congress for salaries in the Copyright Office for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906, was $74,700. Of this amount the total expenditure for salaries was $74,536.67, or $5661.33 less than the net amount of fees earned and paid into the Treasury during the corresponding year. The expenditure for supplies, except furniture, including stationery and other articles, and postage on foreign mail matter, etc., was $1055.89.

The copyright fees received and paid into the United States Treasury during the last nine years, from July 1, 1897, to June 30, 1906, amount to $607,533.50, while the sum used of the appropriations for salaries during that period was $502,124.89, leaving an excess of fees over appropriations used for service for the nine years of $105,408.61.

During these same nine years the articles received as deposits amount to the grand total of 1,487,281 pieces, including two copies each of 81,203 books and pamphlets; 40,847 leaflets; 63,779 periodical contributions; 7596 dramatic compositions; 162,316 separate numbers of periodicals; 180,491 musical compositions; 14,284 maps and charts; 53,710 engravings, cuts and prints; 16,283 chromos and lithographs; 110,747 photographs, and 389 miscellaneous articles. In addition to the above 23,991 photographs were deposited to identify the same number of original works of art—paintings, drawings and statuary—of which the descriptions had been filed. Many of these articles are of considerable value.

COPYRIGHT ENTRIES AND FEES.

The entries of titles for the fiscal year numbered 117,704. Of these entries 108,161 were titles of the productions of citizens or residents of the United States, and 9543 were titles of works by foreigners. The fees for these entries were: United States $54,080.50; foreign, $9543, or a total of $63,623.50.

Of the foreign entries 1992 were with certificates, and of the United States entries 27,804, or a total of 29,796 certificates, at fees amounting to $14,898. In addition, 1843 copies of record were furnished for $921.50 in fees; assignments to the number of 669 were recorded and certified, at a charge of $738, and search fees charged to the amount of $17. The total copyright fees for the year amounted to $80,198.

The number of entries in each class from July 1, 1905, to June 30, 1906, as compared with the number of entries made in the previous year, is shown in the following table:

COPYRIGHT DEPOSITS.

The various articles deposited in compliance with the copyright law, which have been receipted for, stamped, credited, indexed and catalogued during the fiscal year amount to 211,138. This is a gain of 3714 over the preceding fiscal year. The number of these articles in each class for the nine fiscal years is shown in Exhibit G, and indicates a grand total of 1,487,281 articles received in the nine years.

COPYRIGHT CATALOGUE AND INDEX.

The usual four quarterly volumes of the Catalogue of Title Entries were printed, containing 5319 pages.

The title index cards for the fiscal year number 167,292. After having been first used as the copy of the printed catalogue required to be produced weekly by the act of Congress of March 3, 1891 (51st Cong., 2d sess., ch. 565), these cards are added to the permanent card indexes of the copyright entries, which now number a total of over 1,380,000 cards.

Under the provisions of the act making appropriation for the sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year 1907, the printing and distribution of the Catalogue of Copyright Entries have been transferred from the Treasury Department to the Library of Congress. This gives opportunity for the introduction of certain changes in the form of the catalogue which it is hoped will make it a more useful publication and secure a wider distribution of it. As heretofore published, the four quarterly volumes for the year have each contained all the entries for the quarter arranged by subjects. Beginning with July 1, 1906, it is proposed to issue four volumes each year divided in accordance with the subject-matter of the articles registered. Thus Part 1 of the catalogue will contain the titles of all copyright books, dramatic compositions, and maps and charts; Part 2 the titles of all periodicals registered for copyright protection; Part 3 the titles of all musical compositions so registered, and Part 4 will contain all registrations under other designations provided by the copyright law, including works of the fine arts, engravings, chromos and lithographs and photographs.

It is proposed in Part 1 of the catalogue to make two groups of the book titles, one to contain the titles of all books for which the Library of Congress supplies printed cards, and the second to contain the titles of pamphlets, leaflets, and all other publications registered under the legal designation "book." It is proposed also to print the titles included in the first group to correspond with the titles as printed in the Library of Congress cards, and to use for that purpose the linotype slugs now used in printing such cards to save the resetting of the titles. While the first volumes under the new arrangement will only cover the half year from July to December, 1906, it is intended thereafter to make annual volumes to correspond with the calendar year, and to cumulate the weekly indices, so far as may be deemed permissible, and supply each volume with an index for the entire year.

This division of the catalogue according to subject-matter will permit binding up the volumes by subjects and will also make it possible to subscribe for one or more of the parts as well as for the complete catalogue as heretofore, the subscription prices for the several parts to be proportioned to the amount of matter contained in each.

CIRCULARS AND BULLETINS.

The customary "Annual Statement" was issued on January 4, 1906, setting out in condensed form the statistics of the copyright business for the calendar year 1905. A circular containing the President's proclamation of the establishment of copyright relations with Norway was printed August 21, and new revised editions were printed of the Copyright Office Bulletins Nos. 1 and 2 containing the copyright laws and the directions for making application for copyright registration.

In connection with the effort to secure a revision of the copyright laws various circulars were printed, together with preliminary drafts of the text of the proposed copyright bill, and some explanatory matter. The full titles of these drafts, etc., are as follows:

1. The Copyright Law of the United States of America, in force March 3, 1905. 6th edition. 3d thousand. 30 pp. +1 l. 8°. 1906.

2. Directions for the registration of copyrights under the laws of the United States. 6th edition. 50 pp. 8°. 1906.

CONDITION OF COPYRIGHT OFFICE WORK.

The current work of the office is kept well up to date, considering the fluctuations in the copyright business. During the year the title registrations have varied from 138 in one day to 2960 on another day.

At this date, (July 5, 1906,) the remittances received up to the third mail of the day have been recorded and acknowledged; the account books of the bookkeeping division are written up and posted to June 30, and the accounts rendered to the Treasury Department are settled up to and including the month of June, while earned fees to June 30, inclusive, have been paid into the Treasury.

All copyright applications received up to and including June 30 have been passed upon and refunds made. The total unfinished business for the full nine years from July 1, 1897, to June 30, 1906, amounts to but $366.96.

At the close of business on July 5, 1906, notwithstanding the intervening Sunday and holiday, (July 4,) the titles for record in all classes had been dated, classified, and numbered to July 3, and all titles had been indexed up to June 30.

The articles of all classes deposited had been stamped, catalogued, and credited up to the receipts of June 30, inclusive, except Class A, books II and III, to June 23, and Class D, dramatic compositions, to June 25.

The Catalogue of Copyright Entries had been brought forward to No. 782 of June 28, 1906.

The certificate and non-certificate entries had been recorded to June 30, inclusive, and certificates and notices of entry to the same date made, revised and mailed.

(b) Copyright Business Prior to July 1, 1897.

Congress, in the appropriation act for the fiscal year just closed, continued the special force for work on the arrears of Copyright Office business prior to July 1, 1897. The examination and arrangement of the mass of deposits has been continued, and 9372 credited musical compositions (previously arranged by years of entry) have been given a more exact arrangement and conveniently shelved for future reference.

Credited articles to the number of 50,045 (including 1328 pamphlets, 26,636 periodicals, 13,261 musical compositions, 2710 cuts and prints and 3064 photographs), have been filed away under year and number. In the work of crediting deposits 27,928 articles were handled, and 25,611 articles (including 12,495 musical compositions, 1200 maps, 2698 cuts and prints, and 5352 photographs), were credited and filed, those desired by the library being forwarded to the shelves for use. In the case of 2317 articles, identification and credit could not be made, and they were accordingly indexed and (except those desired by the library) filed for convenient reference.

Titles to the number of 31,497, entered prior to July 1, 1897, but heretofore filed only in rough bundles, have been collated, arranged and permanently filed.

In pursuance of the plan to secure a complete index for all dramatic compositions registered, 17,840 index cards were made during the fiscal year. The cards thus made complete the catalogue and index for the entries for dramatic compositions from July 10, 1870 (when the first registrations were made in the Library of Congress), to 1897, and when added to the current cards for the registrations of dramatic compositions made since 1897 will secure a catalogue of the titles of all dramas recorded during the period from 1870 to date. This catalogue it is hoped presently to print as a Copyright Office Bulletin.

A similar plan in regard to registrations of photographs is under way, and 16,220 cards have been made during the year for such entries from 1870 on.

Uncleared Deposits.

Of the uncleared deposits accumulated in the Copyright Office prior to July 1, 1897, there still remain a total of 118,734 articles. Of these there are 4207 articles which, after careful examination, it has not been possible to credit upon any entries made prior to the date of their receipt. The remaining 114,527 articles have been arranged by subjects, and 34,444 pamphlets and leaflets, 16,091 periodical numbers, 44,087 pieces of music, 7190 insurance maps, 7384 engravings, cuts and prints, 2362 chromos and 2969 posters, still remain to be given further examination in the hope of discovering corresponding entries of titles upon which to credit them.

The report concludes with a full statement of copyright legislation and international copyright relations.

ENGLISH BOOK PRODUCTION IN 1906.

THE total number of new books published in England, as reported by the London Publishers' Circular during 1906, is 6985—or 168 more than in 1905. Theological books, in spite of an increase of fifty in November, show a decrease of eight on the year. Educational works are over a hundred more, as also are political and commercial books and reprinted novels. New novels and juvenile works show an increase of 375. Law books, books on the arts and sciences, and new biographical and historical works have not been quite so numerous as in 1905. In belles-lettres 1905 showed an increase of more than a hundred; last year shows a decrease of 74. A slight decrease is also shown in books on travel and geography, also in poetical and dramatical works.

The analytical table prepared by The Publishers' Circular makes the following showing by classes:

Divisions	1905 New books	1905 New eds.	1906 New books	1906 New eds.

FRENCH BOOK PRODUCTION IN 1906.

THE number of books published in France during 1906, according to the records of the Bibliographie de la France, was 10,898, or 1518 less than in 1905. The number of musical compositions recorded in 1906 was 5926, as against 6197, and the number of engravings, lithographs and photographs registered in 1906 was 1054, or 316 more than in 1905.

As pointed out last year, in order to determine the exact number of books as distinguished from pamphlets, theses, leaflets and similar minor publications it would be safe to deduct between 2000 and 3000 titles. Last year the difference between the records of the Bibliographie de la France, the official booktrade journal which records all printed matter without regard to its merits as literature, and those of the Bureau of the Ministry of the Interior, which takes cognizance of only the more stable element in French booktrade production, amounted to exactly 2942 titles. In 1904 the difference was 2858 titles, and so on back in the same proportion.

BELGIAN BOOK PRODUCTION, 1895-1904.

THE Bibliographie de Belgique and the Institut International de Bibliographie have recently compiled statistics of Belgian activity in publishing books, pamphlets, etc., and periodicals, newspapers, etc., from 1895 to 1904, whch make the following showing, the figures in parenthesis being those furnished by the Institut International de Bibliographie:

YEAR.	BOOKS.	PERIODICALS.
1895	2,660 (2,378)	815 (632)
1896	2,382 (2,118)	817 (729)
1897	2,320 (2,132)	883 (777)
1898	2,479 (2,285)	927 (830)
1899	2,284 (2,143)	934 (821)
1900	2,745 (2,511)	983 (828)
1901	2,824 (2,613)	1,059
1902	2,677 (2,499)	1,007
1903	2,849 (2,639)	1,182
1904	2,995 (2,734)	12,275 (904)

25. Theatre	161	153
26. Juveniles	312	304
27. Popular books, sports, etc	54	48
Totals	3403	3290

Of the total books for 1905, (which last year was erroneously reported from unofficial sources as 3051,) 433 were reprints, 447 were pamphlets, dissertations, etc., and 393 were translations.

THE POPULAR FICTION OF 1906.

IN THE UNITED STATES.

According to The Bookman, the six authors whose books have appeared oftenest in its lists of best-selling books for 1906 are Mrs. Wharton, Booth Tarkington, Meredith Nicholson, Owen Wister, Upton Sinclair and Winston Churchill. Close behind these are George Barr McCutcheon, Rex Beach, Robert W. Chambers, Mrs. Humphry Ward, Ellen Glasgow, Margaret Deland and the Baroness von Hutten.

The following is the result of comparisons from the tables given by The Bookman for the twelve months:

FIVE TIMES MENTIONED.

The House of Mirth, The Conquest of Canaan, The House of a Thousand Candles, Lady Baltimore, The Jungle, Coniston.

FOUR TIMES MENTIONED.

The Spoilers.

THREE TIMES MENTIONED.

Nedra, The Gambler, The Wheel of Life, Fenwick's Career, Pam Decides, The Awakening of Helena Richie, The Fighting Chance.

TWICE MENTIONED.

Barbara Winslow, Rebel, Jane Cable.

ONCE MENTIONED.

Rose o' the River, Fair Margaret, The Man of the Hour, A Maker of History, The Truth About Tolna, Cowardice Court, Silas Strong, The Dawn of a To-morrow, The Woman in the Alcove, The Tides of Barnegat, Sir Nigel, The Treasure of Heaven, The Call of the Blood, Bob Hampton.

"There is but little change," says the editor of The Bookman, "from year to year in the number of books represented in these lists. It has been as low as twenty-six and as high as thirty-four. In 1906 the number was thirty. Twenty-three of these books were by American authors and seven by British authors. In connection with this we must explain that we are claiming Mrs. Burnett as an American woman. Of the very popular novels, all but one were of American origin. The proportion of women represented was much greater than in any other year, thirteen books being of feminine authorship as against seventeen written by men. For the first time in some years there is no book on the list which is the result of collaboration. This is due to the inactivity of Mr. and Mrs. Castle and Mr. and Mrs. Williamson."

IN ENGLAND.

In England, according to the London Book Monthly, the novels that sold best during the year are: "Fenwick's Career," by Mrs. Humphry Ward; "The Far Horizon," by Lucas Malet; "The Treasure of Heaven," by Marie Corelli; "The Gambler," by Mrs. Cecil Thurston; "Prisoners," by Mary Cholmondeley; "The Dream and the Business," by John Oliver Hobbes; "The Viper of Milan," by Marjorie Bowen; "The White House," by Miss Braddon; "In Subjection," by Ellen Thorneycroft Fowler; "A Sovereign Remedy," by Mrs. Steel; "The Incomplete Amorist," by E. Nesbit, and "A Queen of Rushes," by Allen Raine. While such stories as Kipling's "Puck of Pook's Hill," Hichens's "The Call of the Blood," "Sir Nigel," by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, and half a dozen others have also done well, it is the conviction of Mr. James Milne, of the Book Monthly, that the women writers had the best of the market during the past year. Even in autobiography a woman's book leads, or is in the first flight of "best-sellers," Lady Dorothy Nevill's "Reminiscences."

THE JUDICIAL TEMPER OF MODERN AUTHORSHIP

The New York Herald in reviewing the fall season in the booktrade notes that perhaps the most striking feature it reveals is the continuation or completion of a number of important historical series, such as James Ford Rhodes's "History of the United States," the two new volumes of the "Cambridge Modern History," edited by the late Lord Acton; "The Causes of the Civil War," by Captain F. E. Chadwick, commander of the Oregon during the Spanish-American war; Henry C. Lea's monumental "History of the Spanish Inquisition," and a number of others. In measuring the authority of this work the Herald very truly says: "In all these histories and historical biographies there is an attempt, creditable to twentieth century scholarship and independence, at an impartial estimate which was unknown to our ancestors. Catholics, Protestants and agnostics have shown an equal desire to arrive at the truth and to deal justly with men and measures that antagonized their respective faiths. That a Catholic like Lord Acton should have been selected to edit a history prepared under the sanction of a great Protestant institution like Cambridge University, that a Protestant like Dr. Lea should have discussed the Spanish Inquisition in a liberal and candid spirit, that a Northerner, like Captain Chadwick, should do justice to the attitude of the Southern Confederate States, all these are facts significant of the closer solidarity of the race which will be brought about in the new era."

THE WORK OF BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS IN 1906 AND IN 1907.

To the Members of the American Booksellers' Association.

THE year 1907 opens with everything pointing in the direction of good business, and as we close the books, and take a fresh start, it might be well to consider briefly what 1906 has done for the booktrade and for our Association.

In the first place, in spite of many obstacles, the year 1906 closed with the lines of the American Booksellers' Association and of the American Publishers' Association solid and intact, and protection and the net system more firmly established than ever before. It is indeed doubtful whether the net system will ever again be as fiercely attacked as it was during 1906.

From January to December it was assailed from all sides, and its enemies left nothing undone to accomplish its overthrow; but we have come out of the battle victorious, and it remains for us to bury our dead, look after our wounded, and straighten out our lines for the campaign of 1907.

As we face another twelve months, each one of them filled with its difficulties and annoyances, it is well to consider that we need the support of every member. The six hundred members of our Association, scattered as they are over this great country, from Maine to Texas, and from New York to California, form a great army, whose strength and influence can hardly be estimated, and if we will stand together we can accomplish almost anything we aim at. But we want strong, active, courageous action; half-hearted support of our principles will not give us the results we are after. What have we to-day, and what do we want to accomplish during 1907? We have to-day the American Publishers' Association, an organization embracing seventy of the leading publishers of America; almost every publisher of any note in the country is found in its ranks and is supporting its aims and purposes. We have the American Booksellers' Association, an organization of nearly six hundred booksellers, scattered all over this broad land, almost every bookseller of any consequence on our rolls, and supporting the net system. We have protection and the net system working satisfactorily, bringing better conditions and better profits to both publisher and bookseller, and, as I stated before, we have these things in spite of the almost frantic efforts of our enemies to break them down.

Now, what do we want to accomplish in 1907? To begin with, we want to broaden and strengthen our organization in every direction; we want to extend the scope of protection and the net system; we want to raise the limit on protected fiction to at least $1.15. We are entitled to a living profit, and if we stand together we will get it; but nothing short of steady, continuous and incessant agitation will bring it about; when the publishers are finally convinced that the booksellers want it we will get it, and not till then.

Again, we want to stand as one solid organization in support of the American Publishers' Association. We must give this Association not only our moral support, but our material support as well. A number of publishers remain outside of the membership of the American Publishers' Association. These publishers have been invited to join that Association; it has been pointed out to them by your officers that their membership in the American Publishers' Association would aid us in our reform work; it has been plainly stated to them that their refusal to join with us in our efforts for better prices is a menace to our whole movement. Is this not a case where the policy of "Reciprocity" should be brought into play? It is a situation where the lines are plainly drawn. The American Publishers' Association was organized to benefit the retail bookseller; its existence makes net prices and protection possible; its overthrow would mean the end of the net system and a carnival of demoralization and price-cutting.

It should be borne in mind that in this fight for protection and the net system the booksellers have most at stake in the event of the overthrow of protection. The publisher would still market his output at the same ratio of profit; but with the bookseller it would be different; he would be forced into a fight with fierce competition, and he would be forced to divide his present small margin of profit in order to hold his trade. For this reason it should be the policy of every bookseller to encourage the publishers in every way possible in their efforts for our betterment.

On May 15 and 16 next we will hold our seventh annual convention, at the Hotel Victoria, Broadway and Twenty-seventh Street, New York City. The convention will open on Tuesday, May 15, at ten A.M. The banquet will be held at the rooms of the Aldine Association on Wednesday evening, May 16, at seven o'clock. Even at this early date great interest is being displayed, and a great gathering is assured. The seating accommodation of the Aldine Association is being stretched to the limit, and we expect to have with us four hundred guests at the banquet.

In closing I ask for our Association your earnest support during 1907. I bespeak for the American Publishers' Association your interest and encouragement; and to those publishers who remain on the outside I extend on behalf of this Association a most cordial invitation to join with the American Publishers' Association in their efforts for better conditions in the bookselling trade.

HARRY F. DAVIS,
Sec'y of the Amer. Booksellers' Assoc.
PITTSBURG, PA., January 22, 1907.

COPYRIGHT BILL READY FOR THE HOUSE.

IT is reported that the Congressional Committeee on Patents will submit the new copyright bill to the House of Representatives next week. According to an Associated Press despatch, Section G has been modified and a new clause has been substituted for Section F which will permit the use of musical compositions by any mechanical device except "for public performance for profit," that phrase having been defined by the courts and construed to permit the use of musical compositions by those devices for sale for private use and for public entertainment under certain conditions. Copyright term has been extended to the period of life of the author and thirty years after, with the provision that in the year next preceding the twenty-eighth year after a book has been copyrighted the author shall file notice of desire for the full term.

According to the same report the importation clause provides that libraries may import one instead of two copies of a book in any one invoice. Other restrictions are removed. There is no limitation upon the number of invoices.

In view of the urgent appeal for the passage of the bill, the committee hopes to have it acted on by the House at an early date.

KEATS-SHELLEY MEMORIAL.

A LITERARY and musical matinée, in aid of the Keats-Shelley Memorial in Rome, will be given in the large ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria, New York City, on the afternoon of February 14. The object of the entertainment is to obtain the funds necessary to complete the purchase of the house in Rome in which Keats lived and died.

Edmund Clarence Stedman, the chairman of the American Committee on the Memorial, will preside, and among those who will participate are the Rev. Dr. Henry van Dyke, F. Hopkinson Smith, Mrs. Ruth McEnery Stuart, Miss Beatrice Herford, Miss Julia Marlowe and Mrs. Francis L. Wellman. Miss Marlowe will read Keats's "Ode on a Grecian Urn," while Mrs. Wellman will sing a group of songs written to Shelley's words.

Applications for boxes and seats should be made to Miss F. V. Doane, 18 West Thirty-fourth Street, New York City.

RARE MANUSCRIPTS UNEARTHED IN TURKESTAN.

DR. VON LECOQ, of the Berlin Ethnological Museum, who some time ago made discoveries of Buddhist antiquities in Northeast Turkestan, has returned to Berlin, and according to an interview with a representative of the New York Times, announces that his most precious discovery consisted of "fifteen chests filled with manuscripts in no fewer than ten languages. These, with many other articles dug out of the sand, are relics of a highly cultured and artistic people that once inhabited those regions. It was a composite nation, a strange congery of Uigur Tartars, Christians from Syria, Manichaeans from Persia, and Buddhists from India and China, a conjunction and long mingling of peaceable races in Northeast Turkestan at Turfan and elsewhere.

"Wall pictures as well as manuscripts were found. The grandest linguistic discovery relates to the Manichaean writings, and will throw much light on the early speech of the Persians. Most of the writings are on paper. There is no papyrus, but some of the documents are of white soft leather. The wall paintings are on plaster and had to be skillfully hardened before they could be safely cut out. The majority of the pictures are representative of Buddhist art, and it is thought may furnish the missing proof of how Indian art advanced across Asia to Japan; but it will take years to decipher the manuscripts and other treasures."

HALF-CROWN NOVELS IN ENGLAND.

CHATTO & WINDUS, who were among the first English publishers to drop the old three-volume form in favor of the present six-shilling novel, announce that they intend to reduce the price of their novels from six shillings to half a crown, about 62½ cents. This new departure is significant in so far, as the London correspondent of the New York Times points, that no publisher can afford to bring out small editions at 62½ cents—indeed, it has been figured out that there would be a loss if so few as 1000 only were sold. Consequently, if the half-crown novel becomes the rule no publisher would be likely to accept a manuscript which he did not expect would have a really large sale, which would also mean fewer mediocre novels.

TO PREVENT FROSTING OF SHOW WINDOWS.

SOME of the devices which have been suggested to keep moisture from freezing on show windows are given in a recent issue of the Druggist's Circular as follows:

In the far northern latitudes the double or "box" window is adopted by some stores for the particular object of keeping the outer glass clear. The window being really a separate apartment it can be kept free from moisture by placing in it an open jar of quicklime, or, better, of calcium chloride. Either of these agents readily absorb what water may be present in the air, and where there is no moisture there can of course be no condensation on the glass.

In some places a ventilator is placed in the outer glass, and thus the air inside and outside is maintained at about the same temperature and precipitation prevented.

A perforated tin tube extending across the bottom of the window inside and ending in an inverted funnel under which a lamp or gas jet is kept burning, has the effect of keeping the inner surface of the window dry and warm and therefore in a condition unfavorable for condensation and freezing. Where there is a furnace in the store, the window might be heated direct from it, the extra danger from fire, as well as the additional attention which a gas or lamp arrangement would require, being thus eliminated.

Or, an electric fitter might devise a plan by which heat and ventilation could be supplied from the electric wires in the store or along the street. Either ventilation or heat, in sufficient amount, are said to have the desired effect.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

ANNUAL DINNER OF THE PITTSBURG BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE seventh annual banquet of the Pittsburg Booksellers' and Stationers' Association was held in the handsome rooms of the Union Club, in the Frick Building, on Tuesday evening, January 22. Forty persons sat at the tables, which were gaily decorated. The menu was one that would tempt the most fastidious.

President Harry F. Davis acted most acceptably as toastmaster, graciously welcoming the company and keeping every one in a good humor by his witty introductions and good-humored sly "digs" at old friends.

Mr. Clough, who was acting secretary, read a number of letters and telegrams from friends who were unavoidably detained, then expressed particular regret at the absence of William D. Bevin, Ray C. Martin, Sam Mayer, M. E. Heise, Joseph S. Myers, A. W. McCloy, Jacob Henrici, W. V. Dermitt and others whose presence has always added so much to the pleasure of similar previous occasions.

Uncle George A. Olney then spoke at length on the advantage of association membership.

L. E. Waterman paid a most eloquent and touching tribute to the memory of Charles [Pop] Walton, (who had been present at every annual dinner of the Association since its formation,) closing with a beautiful and appropriate poetic recitation.

The Rev. Dr. Joseph Horner gave one of his characteristic humorous and instructive speeches, dwelling at length on the desirability of greater purity of language in fiction.

H. Lee Mason, Jr., gave one of his short, but pleasing talks, on Association matters in general.

E. Walter Giles, of the Esterbrook Steel Pen Company, spoke eloquently in favor of the national movement and the importance of concerted action.

Harry P. Pears spoke with no uncertain voice on the great importance of organization in all lines of trade.

A. B. Thomas, of Eberhard Faber's, expressed Mr. Faber's regrets at not being able to attend the dinner. He then dwelt upon the importance of national and local associations, and recommended that in future the Pittsburg and Boston organizations fix upon dates at least a week apart, thus making it possible to attend both banquets.

E. C. Ketchum, of the Bobbs-Merrill Company, spoke of the rapid strides made by western publishers, and proved conclusively that the far east does not produce all the good books.

R. S. Davis, the oldest stationer and bookseller in Pittsburg, then arose, tall, straight as an arrow, with a crown or driven snow on his head, and repeated in fine elocutionary style the beautiful gem of Whittier's, "Maud Muller on a Summer Day." He closed with a touching tribute to the memory of Charles Walton, quoting a few appropriate verses from Longfellow.

Dr. Horner then sprang to his feet and asked that the Association give expression to their appreciation not only of this splendid recitation, but also of the honorable business example set by Mr. Davis. This was responded to in a most hearty manner.

Fred L. Coggin, of the National Blank Book Company, was the sole representative present of the blank book manufacturing trade, and gave an interesting talk.

A. C. Rippier, of Henry Bainbridge & Co., waxed eloquent over Association matters, closing with an appeal for "On to St. Paul in 1907."

E. W. Arthur spoke humorously of his "retainers," which have been few and far between as attorney for the Association.

John L. Herring bid the work good speed.

A. Baron Holmes spoke briefly of the situation in the East End district.

George H. Alexander urged the importance of more frequent meetings.

A feature of the evening's entertainment was the souvenir—each guest receiving a handsomely bound advance vopy of "The Port of Missing Men," from the publishers, the Bobbs-Merrill Co., of Indianapolis. These books had a special title-page reading as follows:

"To the worthy guild of booksellers of Pittsburg, that great and alluring Port of Missing Men, The Bobbs-Merrill Company extend their greetings and felicitations on the occasion of their Annual Banquet.

"Upon an enthusiasm that no reverse of the moment has ever dampened, upon an unvarying good humor that warms the hearts of publisher and customer, upon a wise and eager endeavor to promote every excellent interest of the business, the gentle Pittsburg bookdealers have reason to pride themselves. The Bobbs-Merrill Company delight to record their admiration for the possessors of these qualities and to offer them anew all sincere and cordial good wishes."

This book will not be offered to the public until next month, and the gift was highly appreciated by all.

The speaking was brought to a close by all clasping hands and joining Uncle George Olney in singing "Auld Lang Syne."

ANNUAL DINNER OF THE BOOSTERS.

A GATHERING of boosters—perhaps 200 of them, all told—assembled at the Hotel Knickerbocker on the evening of January 24 for the annual dinner of the "Boosters' Club." Arthur Brisbane, Charles Battell Loomis, John S. Wise, the Rev. W. Warren Giles, of Summit, N. J.; Hugh Gordon Miller, Congressman John J. Fitzgerald and McCready Sykes spoke, all humorously, about boosting.

STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE.

AT a special meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Stationers' Board of Trade, held on January 24, the following officers were reelected: Henry C. Bainbridge, president; James C. Aikin, first vice-president; Charles S. Kiggins, second vice-president; and Herbert M. Condit, secretary. The Executive Committee also remains unchanged. The Arbitration Committee stands as before, with the exception of William Keuffel, who declined to run again, and has been succeeded by Carl M. Bernegan. Rounds, Hatch, Dillingham & Debevoise were reappointed as attorneys and counsellors for the Board of Trade for the ensuing year, and Deloitte, Plender, Griffiths & Co. were reappointed as the auditors to examine and audit the books for the ensuing year.

The entertainment committee in charge of the annual dinner to be given by the Stationers' Board of Trade on the evening of February 14, at the Waldorf-Astoria, announce that they have secured as speakers for that occasion the Hon. F. H. Crane, the Hon. George L. Record, General Ballington Booth and Ralph S. Rounds. Besides these the committee expects to have several more prominent speakers. Charles A. Mann, of the William Mann Company and president of the National Association of Stationers and Manufacturers, will be present as a guest. The price of the ticket is $7, which includes red and white wines and cigars. Application for tickets should be made promptly either to the committee or to the secretary of the Board, H. M. Condit, at 97 Nassau Street, New York City.

OBITUARY NOTES.

JOSIAH FLYNT WILLARD, whose experiences as tramp, author and socialist have given him a more than local reputation, died on January 21 at the Kaiserhof in Chicago, Ill. Mr. Willard, better known by his pseudonym, "Josiah Flynt," was born January 23, 1869, at Appleton, Wis. Oliver Atherton Willard, his father, was a member of the widely-known Evanston family of that name; his mother, May Bannister, was a daughter of one of the founders of the Northwestern University, and until a few years ago conducted a school for girls in Berlin, Prussia, and Miss Frances Willard was his aunt. Even in his boyhood his nomadic habits manifested themselves, and after leaving school, with brief intervals, notably during the years 1890 to 1895, when in deference to his mother's wishes he took a course in the Berlin University, Willard was literally "on the tramp." Few other writers of our day have so well defined the wanderlust—that impulse which draws the worker from the workshop and his home and forces him out to the hard but carefree life on the highways, the bumpers and brake beams where a car floor is a luxurious bed and a backdoor "hand-out" is a feast. Only thirty-eight years old at the time of his death "Josiah Flynt" had tramped in every civilized country of the globe, wearing the costume of a working class of each particular nation he wandered through. He was a friend of Ibsen, had been entertained at various times by Count Tolstoy, and his experiences and writings have furnished sociologists with more information on the tramp than any other source. His writings are scattered through magazines and several books, among the latter being "Tramping With Tramps," "Powers That Prey," (with Francis Walton,) "Notes of an Itinerant Policeman," "The World of Graft" and "The Little Brother." Late in the eighties "Josiah Flynt" went all over the country studying the labor disturbances, which were to culminate in the great industrial outbreaks of 1892 and 1893. In the service of the Pennsylvania Railroad he policed the lines west of Pittsburg. After his Berlin University course he covered all of Europe. It is generally accepted that he coined the word "grafter," which seems bound to live much longer than the studies of the criminal and semi-criminal life which first contained it.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

PROFESSOR SIMON NEWCOMB, author of "Reminiscences of an Astronomer," etc., has been made a commander of the Legion of Honor by the French Government.

A. E. W. MASON has written a new novel, "The Broken Road," which is to be published serially in The Cornhill. Its title, like that of his story, "Running Water," now appearing in The Century, leaves its meaning to be sought in the pages of the story.

AT the exercises in commemoration of the centennial of the birth of General Robert E. Lee, at Lexington, Va., on January 19, the orator of the day was Colonel Charles Francis Adams, of Boston. His address is published in full by Houghton, Mifflin & Co.

WORD has just been received in this country from France that the Cross of the Legion of Honor has been awarded to H. C. Chatfield-Taylor in consideration of his services to French literature through his recently published biography of "Molière" (Duffield & Company). Mr. Chatfield-Taylor has long been a student of French literature, and in the course of preparation for his life of Molière made a protracted residence in Paris. Extensive researches, in which the author had the assistance of Jules Claretie, director of the Comédie Française, and Leopold Mabilleau, director of the Musée Social, were made on behalf of the volume, and Georges Monval, keeper of the archives of the Comédie Française, put the priceless original costumes and properties of the house of Molière at the disposal of the biographer and his illustrator. Mr. Chatfield-Taylor is a graduate of Cornell University, from which he holds the degree of M.A. and A.B. He has already been decorated by the French government with the order of an Officier de l'Instruction Publique, an honor seldom accorded to foreigners, and only once or twice conferred on an American.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

GEORGE WATSON COLE's exhaustive bibliography of Bermuda closes with the instalment in the January issue of the Bulletin of Bibliography, and will shortly be published in book form by the Boston Book Company. The edition will be limited to 150 copies, bound in half roan, at $3 net.

THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY announces the quarterly issue, beginning in the April Bulletin of Bibliography, of a subject index to the principal articles in certain important magazines which are not included in either the Library Index or Reader's Guide. Thirty-eight periodicals have been selected and still others may be included.

THE association of German Freemasons will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary in September, 1911, by publishing a bibliography of German works on Freemasonry. The bibliography is to include printed books and contributions to periodicals, etc., those since 1750 in the German language, those previous to 1750 in one of the better-known languages of the day—possibly French.

THE CHURCH LIBRARY ASSOCIATION, Cambridge, Mass., has published its third "Catalogue of Books Recommended for Sunday-school and Parish Libraries," containing all the books read and recommended by the association during the past three years, together with such new editions of books already on the two catalogues as have been published by other publishers than therein named, or offered at a lower price. No charge is made for the catalogue, but voluntary contributions of twenty-five cents and upwards would insure the continuance of the work by meeting the expense of printing and mailing. (44 p. 32°, pap.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

"HELENA RITCHIE" is to be printed in raised letters for the benefit of the blind.

FRANK N. DOUBLEDAY, senior member of the firm of Doubleday, Page & Co., has sailed with his family for an extended tour through Europe and the Orient.

D. C. HEATH & Co. will publish shortly "An Introduction to Vulgar Latin," by Professor C. H. Grandgent, of Harvard, designed for students of Romance Philology.

RICHARD G. BADGER, Boston, has just brought out George Henschel's "Personal Recollections of Johannes Brahms," with a number of portraits, including one of Clara Schumann and Sargent's portrait of Henschel.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just brought out a work on "German Religious Life in Colonial Times," by Lucy F. Bittinger, who will be remembered by her volume on "Germans in Colonial Times," published several years ago.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish shortly F. Hopkinson Smith's new book, "The Veiled Lady, and Other Men and Women," a collection of delightful stories full of humor, kindliness and adventure in many parts of the world; also, "Felicity," a new novel by Clara E. Laughlin, with illustrations in color.

THE C. M. CLARK PUBLISHING CO., Boston, have an interesting book for prospective travellers in Europe in "A Boy's Vacation Abroad," by C. F. King, Jr. The book is written in the form of a log, in which each day of a two months' trip is brimful of entertaining experiences in London, Paris, Rome, Athens, Constantinople and other places of interest.

GEORGE C. FIELD, well known to New York educators as the reprsentative, for the past ten years, of the University Publishing Company, has made arrangements with Hinds, Noble & Eldredge to act as their New York representative. Mr. Field will be at his office, 31 West Fifteenth Street, every Saturday between nine and twelve A.M.

SHERMAN & BRYAN, New York City, have just published a book entitled "The First Ironclad Naval Engagement in the World," by Captain E. V. White, of Norfolk, Va., who was junior engineer in charge of gong and speaking tube on the gun deck of the Confederate Merrimac during its engagement with the Federal Monitor. Captain White maintains that the Merrimac defeated the Monitor "after a battle in which heroic valor was displayed on both sides."

"THE RICHARD MANSFIELD ACTING VERSION OF PEER GYNT" was published on October 29, last year, by the Reilly & Britton Co., of Chicago. The second large edition was put to press on November 1; a third edition early in December, and a fourth edition has just been printed. Wherever Mr. Mansfield produces the play of "Peer Gynt" there is a strong local demand for the book, while the publishers are in receipt of orders from all parts of the country from admirers of Mr. Mansfield and votaries of the "Ibsen Cult." The trade will consult its best interests by making a memorandum of these points and watch the places and dates of Mr. Mansfield's appearance in the part.

THE firm of Sampson Low, Marston & Co., the well-known English publishers, has recently been reorganized, and will commence another phase of its career under the direction of Walter Tyrrell and Frederick J. Rymer, with offices at 17A Paternoster Row. Both members of the firm are no strangers to the trade, Mr. Tyrrell having been connected with Sampson Low, Marston & Co. from 1882 to 1893, from 1893 to 1898 with William Clowes & Sons, and since 1898 again with the firm of which he is now one of the proprietors. Mr. Rymer has been a representative of the firm for the last twenty-two years in all parts of the kingdom. Under the new auspices the firm will specialize in "juveniles," biography and books of travel.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO. will publish at once S. W. Fletcher's long-expected book on "Soils," which will form the second volume of the Farm Library. On February 14 they expect to bring out "My Life as an Indian," by J. W. Schultz; "The Efficient Life," by Luther H. Gulick; "Birds That Every Child Should Know," by Neltje Blanchan; "The Water Garden," by H. S. Conrad, a new volume in the Garden Library; also "The Issue," by Edward Noble. They have in preparation a new work by Upton Sinclair, the author of "The Jungle," which will be entitled "The Industrial Republic." It is said to be a "fact book," and, in a sense, will outline an idea of a real democracy of industrialism. They have also in preparation "To Him That Hath," a new novel by Leroy Scott, originally announced under the title of "The Highest Price," which tells the story of an innocent man who takes upon himself the crime, and pays the penalty of his friend's defalcation, to save his friend's good name and preserve the good influence he had on others.

G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY announce "Devota," by Augusta Evans Wilson, a poignant tragedy of two lives, which will, in all probability, be the last work of this popular author; "The End of the Game," a novel of American life, by Arthur Hornblow, whose "Lion and the Mouse" is now nearing its sixtieth thousand; General King's new Civil War story, "The Rock of Chickamauga," in which the great soldier, General George H. Thomas, is the central figure; "The Range Dwellers," by the author of "Chip of the Flying U;" also, George V. Hobart's new John Henry book entitled "Beat It," a series of letters from John Henry to his friend Bunch, which forms the eleventh volume of the John Henry series, the ten previous books of which have had a sale of nearly 700,000 copies. Another enterprise of the Dillingham Company is the reissue of the most popular dime novel ever issued, "Seth Jones of New Hampshire," by Edward S. Ellis, which the author has rewritten, now nearly fifty years since the first issue. Added to the above list will soon ap- "The Sheriff of Wasco," by Charles Ross Jackson, a vigorous Western story of great dramatic force, and two humorous new books, "Cinders," the diary of a drummer, by Wright Bauer, and "Flip-Flap Fables," by Frank E. Kellogg.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY announce a book on conditions social, economic and religious of South America under the title "The Neglected Continent," by Francis E. Clark, founder and president of the United Society of Christian Endeavor. Dr. Clark starts this month on a tour that will cover practically every centre of importance in South America. He will visit Panama, Chile, Ecuador, Peru, over the mountains to Argentine and Brazil, and probably Uruguay and Paraguay. He will of course hold meetings in the interest of Christian Endeavor everywhere, but his prime object is to gather information of every sort that will help the rest of the world understand the problems facing Christian civilization in those countries. They will bring out early in March "The Life of James Harris Fairchild, D.D., LL.D.," prepared under the auspices of the faculty of Oberlin College by Albert Temple Swing, Professor of Church History. Dr. Fairchild's life is interwoven with sixty years of the history of Oberlin College, and has the interest of both the person and the institution that he did so much to build up, and which has played so great a part in the educational ideals of our country. The book receives the supervision of President King and the Prudential Committee of the College, and may be regarded quite as much as a history of the institution as of the man.

G. BERNARD SHAW'S BOOKS

DON'T MISS SALES

SO MANY of G. BERNARD SHAW'S plays are being acted, and others are announced for production this season, that the demand for the Shaw books continues active and constant.

We are convinced that many booksellers throughout the country do not keep a supply of Bernard Shaw's books adequate for their customers' wants.

We ask booksellers to place orders either through their jobbers, or direct, and to keep a complete stock of the Shaw books constantly on hand.

Catalogues and prices quoted on request.

Standard Engineering Books

Reinforced Concrete Ready

By A. W. BUEL and C. S. HILL. The second edition of this work, entirely rewritten and enlarged, is now ready. The delay in publication has been due to the authors' desire to include some exceedingly important data. The most thoroughly up-to-date treatise upon the subject in the English language and a standard authority.

Part I.—Methods of Calculation.
Part II.—Representative Examples.
Part III.—Methods of Construction.
Appendixes.—Recent Beam and Column Tests, Proportioning Ingredients, etc.

Buckram, 6x9 ins., 500 pages, 357 illustrations, 8 folding plates, $5.00 net.

Railroad Curve Tables Ready

By R. S. HENDERSON. Containing a comprehensive table of functions of a one-degree curve, with correction quantities giving exact values for any degree of curve; also trigonometric tables and formulas, and a method of finding any function of a curve, of any degree or radius, without a field book.

The plates from which this work has been printed are photo-reproductions from the author's original tracings; the use of this process eliminates all possibility of typographical errors, and its economy enables the publishers to offer the book at the following prices:

Handbook size (4x7 ins.), 96 pages, 10 diagrams. Cloth, $1.50 net. Flexible leather, $2.00 net.

Practical Hints for Concrete Constructors

By W. J. DOUGLAS. The most useful paper on the subject ever published in a technical journal. Issued in pamphlet form as No. 12 of "Engineering News Reprints." Paper, 4½ x 7 ins., 48 pages, $0.25.

Economics of Railway Operation In Preparation

By M. L. BYERS, C.E., Chief Engineer M. of W., Missouri Pacific Ry. Chapters: Organization; Employment, Education and Discipline of Forces; Accounts and Accounting; Reports; Operation; Maintenance of Way and Structures; Maintenance of Equipment; Conducting Transportation; Miscellaneous; Analytical; Betterments. The work will contain many illustrations, tables, and forms taken from the best current practice. A book to be watched for by railroad men.

Universal Dictionary of Mechanical Drawing Ready

By GEO. H. FOLLOWS, C.E. This work has appeared serially in the columns of Engineering News during the past two years, and has attracted much attention. The author presents a well-thought-out system of conventions for the consideration of Engineers and Draftsmen, which are conclusions drawn from an extended experience in the management of large drawing offices.

Cloth, 8 x 11 ins., profusely illustrated in the text, and with full-page plates. $1.00 net.

Batter Tables Ready

By C. G. WRENTMORE. C.E. A useful set of time-saving tables for the structural drafting-room. Complete in every 1-16 in., from 1-16 : 12 to 12:12—in all, 192 tables giving attitude and hypothenuse.

Blue Buckram, 7 x 8½ ins., 192 pages, with diagrams, $5.00 net.

The Design of Steel Mill Buildings Ready

By MILO S. KETCHUM, C.E. Second edition now ready. This work, whose sub-title is "The Calculation of Stresses in Framed Structures," has been revised and enlarged by over 100 pages, which include Influence Diagrams, Calculation of Pin Stresses, Problems in Graphic Statics, Data on Loads, Foundations, Saw-Tooth Roofs, etc. A work of decided value to Designing Engineers, and one especially adapted to the needs of students.

Cloth, 6 x 9 ins., 480 pages, 214 illustrations, $4.00 net.

The Six-Chord Spiral In Preparation

By J. R. STEPHENS, C.E. Giving the particulars and method of application of a new and improved Railway Transition Curve.

4⅛ x 6¾ ins., 80 pages, with many tables and diagrams. Cloth, $1.25. Paper, $1.00.

Design of Walls, Bins and Grain Elevators In Preparation

By MILO S. KETCHUM, C.E., author of "Steel Mill Buildings."

Specifications and Contracts In Preparation

By J. A. L. WADDELL, C.E., author of "De Pontibus," being a course of lectures delivered before the students of the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, to which have been added NOTES ON THE LAW OF CONTRACTS, by JOHN C. WAIT, M.C.E., LL.B., author of "Engineering and Architectural Jurisprudence." Cloth, $1.00 net.

Full details of any of these books and other publications of the Engineering News Publishing Co. will be sent on request; also information regarding any books of a technical or general nature published by other houses.

☛ The February Bookman well sustains our claim for THE DOCTOR. Not only is it shown to be the most popular book this season, but it leads its nearest rival by over 100 points.

Ralph Connor's Latest
THE DOCTOR

Eight Years Ago The St. Louis Globe Democrat predicted "'Ralph Connor' is some man's nom-de-plume—the world will insist on knowing whose."

Today "Ralph Connor" is known the world around as the pen name of Charles W. Gordon, a novelist of this century whose works have endured and will endure.

"The Doctor," his latest, is easily the most popular book this season, the one book on everyone's lips. Although published only two months ago, 200,000 copies already have been called for.

N. Y. Times Review says: "The best thing 'Ralph Connor' has done since 'The Sky Pilot,' perhaps the best he has ever done, for here he is at his strongest."

N. Y. Tribune says: "His art improves with each story."

Buffalo Express says: "Ralph Connor at his best."

Announced for Early Publication

1 By EDITH WHARTON

MADAME DE TREYMES

Illustrated in color by ALONZO KIMBALL. $1.00

In this brilliant story of a young American woman who marries into a French family of high position Mrs. Wharton shows in the most subtle, discerning and striking way the contrast between the French and American views of family relations. Madame de Treymes is a fascinating and remarkable creation. The question of international marriage has never before been analysed in so keen and brilliant a way.

2 F. HOPKINSON SMITH'S

NEW BOOK

THE VEILED LADY

AND OTHER MEN AND WOMEN

Illustrated. $1.50

Mr. Hopkinson Smith's stories are second in popularity only to his novels. This new book of his kindly humorous and delightful stories is sure of the same success as "The Under Dog" and "At Close Range."

3 CLARA E. LAUGHLIN'S

NOVEL

THE MAKING OF A STAR

Illustrated in color by ALICE BARBER STEPHENS. $1.50

A story of intense emotional power. The rise of an American actress whose talent as a comedienne develops through a series of absorbingly interesting experiences with all kinds of people and places. A love story in the midst of the emotional, picturesque, tense life of the theatre, full of humor and humanness, keen understanding, and the broadest, kindliest philosophy. A remarkable novel.

ISSUED FROM

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY OFFICE

The Publishers' Weekly

Recognized as the representative of the publishing and bookselling interests in the United States. Contains full weekly record of American publications, with monthly indexes, cumulated quarterly, news of interest concerning the book trade, lists of "Books Wanted," (an advertising feature which each subscriber can use without charge to the extent of 100 lines per year,) etc., etc. Subscription, $4.00 a year; to foreign countries, $5.00 a year.

The American Catalog, 1900-1905

Vol. I contains a five-year cumulation, Jan. 1, 1900-Jan. 1, 1905, giving in one alphabet, by author, title and subject, information of the books issued during the years covered by this period. It also contains a directory of over 3800 publishers, with street addresses. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50.

Vol. II or Supplementary volume gives the full-title entries with annotations printed in the Weekly Record of The Publishers' Weekly, cumulated into an alphabet for each year, i.e., into five alphabets 1900, 01, 02, 03, 04. This is planned to answer the demand of such libraries, bookdealers, and others as want the full material of The Publishers' Weekly bibliographical system in available shape. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50. The set of two, $12.

Of the previous series of THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE, quarto size, the earlier volumes are out of print. We have remaining a few copies of the volumes 1890-95 and 1895-1900, bound in half morocco, $15.00 each.

The Annual American Catalog

Contains in one alphabet a record of all books published during 1905, under author, title, subject and series entries; also under author's name an alphabetical list of the same titles with descriptive annotations from The Publishers' Weekly, etc. 8vo, cloth, $3.00.

Same catalog for 1906 will be ready early in March.

The Publishers' Trade List Annual

Contains the latest catalogues of upward of 200 American publishers, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names, with smaller lists, fully indexed, at the end of the volume. Indispensable to every one who has any interest in the sale or purchase of books. Large 8vo, cloth, $2.00.

Index to the Publishers' Trade List Annual, 1902, out of print.

The Supplementary Index, 1903-1904, 500 pages, 8vo, cloth, with thumb index, $3.00. The alphabet in this volume is supplementary to the original Index of 1902.

The American Educational List

Contains a price-list of the text-books in use in the United States, arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject. (Published annually.) 8vo, leatherette, 50 cents.

Whitaker's Reference Catalogue of Current Literature, 1906. (London, J. Whitaker & Sons.)

(The trade price-lists of all the British publishers.) 2 vols., half leather binding, $5.00.
